NORRIS ASKS STABILIZATION OF FARM FEES

Wants President's Plan of '100 Per Cent of Parity' Used In Legislation.

Would Freeze Pay, Then Adjust It as Commodity Index Rises or Falls.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Senator George W. Norris (I) of Nebraska, today demanded sweeping wage and price legislation on the ground that the country is being driven toward inflation.

The veteran farm bloc leader said at the same time that he did not see how any action congress takes could be successful unless it included the president's plan to stabilize farm prices at 100 per cent of parity instead of 110 per cent.

"I have always believed," Norris asserted, "that the farmer should be adequately compensated for his goods. I still think so. I still think there is justification for giving him more than parity because, for so long, he got much less than that. But justification will not aid the program. It will serve only to hinder it."

Norris said he had given considerable study lately to the Canadian plan of managed economy and thought it would work in the United States.

It is his idea that wage control can be handled in much the same way as the federal government's commodity price indices are compiled and handled, so that wages can be kept floating in proper ratio to living costs.

"The government has been compiling commodity price indices for years," Norris went on. "I have never heard anyone question the

Scenes From Both Sides As British-Axis Battle Rages In Egyptian Desert

The battle between Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's Allied armies and the forces of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is raging in the North African desert with undiminished fury as the British strive to roll back the Axis drive that has threatened Alexandria, the Suez Canal and the entire Middle East. Shown above are pictures from opposite sides of the battle lines. Blindfolded, German airmen are pictured, left, as they were led to a prison camp by their British captors after they were found drifting on the Mediterranean in a rubber dinghy. Their Heinkel was shot down over the sea. Field Marshal Rommel is shown, center in photo at right, as he studied maps to plan new moves to meet British counter-attacks.

New Struggle Looms Before Caucasus Gate

British Take More Than 6,000 Axis Prisoners In Egypt Battle

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—British light warships bombarded Matruh, German Marshal Erwin Rommel's advanced Egyptian sea base, on Friday and Saturday nights, the admiralty announced today.

(By United Press)

CAIRO — British armed forces have captured more than 6,000 Axis prisoners in the last 10 days, blasted grounded enemy planes in one of the greatest surprise attacks of the desert war and maintained the initiative on the desert front, it was disclosed today.

The surprise raid by the Royal Air Force, with which the growing U. S. Middle East air force has been cooperating, was carried out at the Axis landing grounds at El Daba Sunday, where a large force of light bombers and fighter-bombers plastered the field with high explosives.

The El Daba field, just west of the forward Axis lines, was torn and ripped by the bombs.

One four-engined plane was seen burning and several smaller craft were in flames. The RAF, after sweeping the field, turned on Axis planes coming in for landings and shot down four Junkers-52s and one Stuka dive-bomber. Then in a final shot at the field, the RAF swept over the dust clouds and released their last bombs.

Most of the prisoners are Italian infantrymen, many of whom do not appear to have much stomach for further fighting in the desert heat and sand.

In the southern sector the Imperial forces of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's Eighth army contacted the enemy at two new points, a hill called Gepel Kalakh and the plateau El Taq. Both are about 25 miles southwest of El Alamein.

Russians Retreat In In South, Foe Pushed Back At Voronezh

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army fell back toward Rostov in the battle of the Don steppes today as the Germans rushed up superior numbers of men, tanks and other weapons in a determined bid for that key to the Caucasus.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was assembling all his available forces in an orderly retreat for a stand somewhere along a 40-mile sector from abandoned Voroshilovgrad to the battleground south of Millerovo.

While the stage thus was being set for a new struggle, the Russians reported significant new successes around their anchor bastion of Voronezh to the north which now resembled a doubled fist in the German flank.

In hand-to-hand fighting the Russians took one main German bridgehead pointed across the Don at Voronezh after a heavy defeat of the invaders' 75th dviision.

Other counterattacking defenders of the city grappled with the Germans south and west of Voronezh on the banks of the Don.

(This appeared to mean that the Germans had been driven back from the city's environs on all sides. Previous dispatches indicated the Germans had been routed to the north of the city and held at bay to the south but had held on to the western outskirts. Voronezh is about 10 miles east of the Don.)

The Red army above Rostov, while yielding ground slowly, refused to let its lines be broken despite the fury of German armored attacks, dive bombing and parachutist landings in its rear, said Russian dispatches from the front. These asserted that the forces which retreated from Voroshilovgrad were being absorbed in an orderly manner into the main forces.

Meanwhile it was reported that the Russians had had time to bring up help from the strong armies garrisoning the northern Caucasus to bolster Timoshenko's fighters, who have been retreating

Tells Of Determined Blows At Japs In Dreary Kiska Harbor

AT SEA WITH THE PACIFIC FLEET—(Delayed)—Kiska harbor may earn a place in history as the dreariest tomb ever to receive the corpse of an invader's hope to conquer the world.

It may be that Honshu's hopeful little men have chosen the foggy bay under the black peaks of Kiska's hills to launch their last serious attempt to invade and conquer the United States.

It now seems more likely they have chosen a place to die.

Midway was their first choice and they failed there. Now despite repetitious punishment by American bombers they are doggedly assembling in Kiska.

Already the emperor's high-prowed ships are going down at their moorings, victims of bombs falling day and night from big brown and gray planes running a shuttle service of destruction along the Aleutian chain.

The big PBY Catalina flying boats first located the Japanese in Kiska harbor June 10. They had moved in during a stormy week.

The battle began June 11 when the first flights of navy Catalinas and army Fortress and B-24 Liberators began freighting bombs to Kiska.

Singly and in flights of two or three, the workhorse Catalinas slid across the mile high peak of Kiska volcano and down on the ships in the harbor. That day one heavy cruiser, two light cruisers, a single destroyer and half a dozen transports lay anchored there.

Five Liberators launched the first concentrated attack. They

HOUSE NEARS TAX BILL VOTE

Prepares To Send Measure To Senate; Would Raise Six Billions.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The house ways and means committee agreed today to last-minute amendments to the new $6,000,000,000 war revenue bill to lower normal and surtax income rates on corporations to 40 per cent and to raise the excess profits rate to 90 per cent.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Only an eleventh-hour vote on corporation tax rates stood in the way today of a final house ballot to send the record-breaking $6,143,900,000 tax bill to the senate.

Debate finished, the first order of business was a decision on whether the house ways and means committee's 87½ per cent excess profits tax and the combined 45 per cent normal and surtax would stand.

Representative Knutson (R., Minn.) promised an effort to send the bulky measure back to the committee with instructions to make the rates 90 and 40 per cent on the theory that the bill's present percentages would cause severe hardships to small corporations.

Arrangements were made to have Knutson's revisions written into the bill in a few minutes, in case his motion should prevail.

Thus, the heaviest tax bill in history, estimated to boost federal taxes to the unprecedented level of $23,000,000,000, seemed assured of passage during the day and speedy transmission to the senate, where Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the finance committee has arranged to open hearings Thursday.

The measure would tax $19 of each $100 of taxable income of individuals in the lowest brackets and $45 on each $100 of the taxable income of corporations plus 87½ per cent of their so-called "excess profits."

'BUFFER ZONE'

WPB Cuts Deliveries in Area Bordering Rationed Region.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A "buffer zone" of 162 counties lying west of the eastern seaboard rationing area was created by the war production board today in which gasoline deliveries will be cut 25 per cent starting at 12:01 a. m. (Eastern War Time), Wednesday.

The cut in supply is designed to prevent rationed motorists from crossing the boundary line to get unlimited motor fuel.

The new "buffer zone" takes in all the other 83 counties of western New York and all of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia where curtailment was in effect during winter months and then lifted, and 76 additional counties in eastern Tennessee and Alabama and western Florida where there has been no previous curtailment.

The service station "curfew"—which forbids stations from remaining open more than 12 hours a day and 72 hours a week—was extended to the buffer zone.

6 Persons Hurt, 10 Arrested As Heavy Traffic Jams Roads

Six persons were injured in traffic accidents in the Mansfield area over the week-end as motorists seeking relief from the heat jammed the highways. In Mansfield a truck driver narrowly escaped injury or death when an Erie train demolished his truck at the North Main street crossing. The state death toll mounted to seven.

At least 10 drivers were cited by state highway patrolmen and police on traffic violation charges, including four motorists who were cited for speeding.

Three persons were injured in a collision of a taxi and a passenger car early Sunday at Wayne and Grace streets. Most seriously injured was Donald Burns, 33, Ashland, driver of the car. He is in General hospital with a fractured vertebra. His condition was reported as good today.

Injured in the same crash were Miss Claire Gemser, 629 Longview avenue, a passenger in the taxi which was driven by Fred R. Geiseman, 160 West First street. Geiseman suffered minor injuries. Miss Gemser was treated at General hospital and released:

Carl Letizia, 439 Daisy street, jumped from his truck about 2 a. m. today when it stalled on the Erie crossing on North Main street and escaped injury. A freight train demolished the truck, police reported.

Donald Truax, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Truax of Mansfield, suffered fractures of his left arm and a deep cut on his arm in an automobile accident early Sunday near New London. He was taken to Samaritan hospital, Ashland, for treatment.

Paul Markel, 34, and George McClure, 28, both of Ashland, suffered cuts and bruises early Sunday in a two-car collision on U. S. Route 250 two miles north of Ash-

TRUCK RAMS BUS

Five Women Killed, 13 Hurt In Highway Accident.

KELLER, Va. —(AP)— A heavy trailer truck rammed the end of a bus crowded with women en route to work at a freezing plant today killing at least five and injuring 13 or more.

State Trooper Charles B. Strauss said the truck, pulling a trailer loaded with celery, struck the bus on U. S. Route 13 just south of Keller and "demolished" it. Both vehicles were headed southward.

The Northampton-Accomac hospital at Nassawadox, Va., said thirteen persons were hospitalized there after the crash and others given first-aid treatment and released.

There were 25 or 30 women in the bus en route to work at a freezing plant in Exmore, Strauss said.

Cooler Weather Forecast After Week-End In 90's

Mansfield's feverish brows and burning feet are enjoying at least temporary respite from intense heat through showers which, starting late Sunday, are forecast to continue through Monday night. Brief electrical storms early today added to the relief measure.

Sunday's high temperature recording was 92 and the lowest 74, falling short of Saturday's marks of 96 and 70 but the week-end established a 48-hour average of 83 degrees, decisively exceeding a 17-year average for the same period of 73.2 degrees. Rainfall to noon Monday was .43 inch and at mid-day the mercury rested at 75.

"Somewhat cooler tonight" is the Ohio weatherman's promise. Lasting relief is not forecast.

Cleveland reported a sunday high of 93 with Toledo forging to the top of the state heap with a mark of 94 in official listings. High in Columbus was 92 degrees with one death reported as superinduced by the extreme heat. Several prostrations were reported throughout the state.

Lake Erie took two lives near Port Clinton when Mary Collins, 14, and Phyllis Zetzer, 12, drowned while bathing. At Washington Court House, William Rinehart, 10, drowned in a stream and at Tiffin Richard Haines, 12, drowned in Sandusky river. Donald Pugh, 26, Lancaster, lost his life in Clear creek after rescuing Ray McNabb, 11.

Nearby fishing resorts reported a slackening of activity due to the heat and many beaches failed to obtain record crowds.

CHINA: U. S. Fliers Bomb Jap Airport, Hit Planes At Canton

(By Associated Press)

CHUNGKING — United States bombing planes blasted a Japanese airfield at Canton Saturday, planting their bombs among some 60 planes on the ground and leaving six great fires blazing, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

In a second attack the American airmen yesterday bombed Linchwan, Japanese base in Kiangsi province. All the planes returned safely from both raids.

Chinese forces, inflicting major setbacks to the Japanese drive aimed at the heart of China from the southeast, have recaptured the seaports of Wenchow and Juian in Chekiang province and broken the invaders' hold on a 15-mile strip of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, the Chinese high command announced yesterday.

The reports of these successes after a long series of Japanese gains was greeted here as the best news in weeks from the war fronts.

Both Wenchow and Juian, 13 miles to the south, were reported captured last Friday less than six days after their occupation by the Japanese in a thrust which extended across the length of Chekiang from Hangchow in the north.

The communique said that in Kiangsi, inland province which adjoins Chekiang on the west, the Japanese took flight from Heng-

AT SEA: More Allied Sinkings Revealed; Soviets Help Convoy

(By Associated Press)

Destruction of two more American merchantmen by submarines in western Atlantic waters put at 385 today the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of wartime Allied and neutral ship losses in that area.

Both sinkings were announced by the navy yesterday, the first ship having been shelled to the bottom in the south Atlantic June 22, the second having been torpedoed and sunk near a large West Indian island July 12. Both vessels were medium-sized.

In Moscow, Red Fleet, Soviet navy organ, reported today that Russian warships and planes had helped a British and American convoy beat off a heavy German aerial attack, during which the Nazis unloaded 212 bombs and 14 aerial torpedoes.

(Red Fleet did not say where or when the action occurred. Only last week, however, dispatches from London told of a running fight in which two Allied convoys got through to Russia with only the loss of a few vessels after at least two German submarines had been sunk and several Nazi planes downed.

(The German high command reported on July 10 that 35 of 38 merchant ships and a U. S. cruiser had been sunk in attacks on a convoy bound for Archangel. The British admiralty said the claims were "grossly exaggerated.")

Boy Scouts Collect 1,000 Old Records in 2 Hours.

Boy Scouts from Mansfield troops collected more than 1,000 old phonograph records today in the first two hours of a two-week campaign to gather 22,000 records in Richland county to be traded for new records and record-players for men in the overseas service.

Frank R. Stahl, chairman of the drive, which is sponsored by McVey Post, American Legion, said that Troop 4 of the Fifth ward collected 576 records by 10 a. m. and that other troops had made only partial reports.

Scouts are making a house-to-house canvass to collect the records which are needed for the shellac coating on them. Shellac is vitally needed for war production.

New Vandalism Breaks Out As Aftermath Of Butler Scrap

Repercussions from the Butler school dispute, comparatively quiet in recent weeks, flared up again over the week-end.

Kinsey Morgan, member of the village board of education, reported to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson today that harness for work horses in his barn had been slashed and virtually destroyed by vandals who broke into the barn over the week-end.

Deputy sheriffs, who attributed the act to a person or persons "trying to get even," went to Butler to investigate.

It was the second time Morgan has been victimized by vandals and the third similar incident in the village since last February when more than half of the school's pupils staged a strike over the temporary suspension of Supt. Willard Weekley who resigned two weeks ago.

The tires on Morgan's car were slashed last spring. About the same time, Paul Millard, a teacher who had been appointed acting superintendent, reported acid had been poured over his topcoat, destroying the garment.

R. C. Rehard of Richwood was employed as superintendent of the Butler schools last week to succeed Weekley. Four of the five members of the Butler board, including Morgan, voted to employ Rehard. Weekley resigned.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Out at M-G-M they're making a supercolossal movie with a U. S. destroyer for a hero.

They started out calling it "Cargo of Innocents" and then they changed it to "Come Hell or High Water," a title the Hays office quickly vetoed. There may be hell on earth but there's not going to be any on movie marquees, so the new name is "Clear for Action"—at least while the Metro gentlemen plead with Mr. Hays's Joe Breen to give them hell.

Coons

While the war is making producers think of stories with feminine casts, this one's important roles are all masculine. There are a few women in incidental parts (the mothers of the "innocents" rescued by the destroyer from their drifting lifeboat) but there isn't any love interest for hero Robert Taylor.

The Messrs. Taylor, Charles Laughton, Brian Donlevy, Walter Brennan and the others will go through this service picture without once squabbling over a girl. This is a departure from Hollywood's service film formula, for in the past the two sailors (soldiers, marines, fliers) weren't through the first reel before you knew that Pat O'Brien was losing the Girl to Jimmy Cagney.

The U. S. S. Warren, a 1917 destroyer being recommissioned for active duty in the current crisis, has been erected—in camera-suitable sections—on Stage 30. Bob Taylor, who tops the billing, says that the Warren is the movie's real hero. And it should be, if I get the story correctly, for the Warren at the film's climax takes on a Jap battleship singlehanded and — one guess which comes out of the smokescreen.

It's odd to find Bob wearing a navy officer's uniform for his role—odd because Bob is an air boy. "I never cared for boats," he says. "They seemed too slow and I wanted speed. I got myself a plane—and—ha, ha!—I found when you get 500 feet up you don't even know you're traveling."

Bob's reading "Victory Through Air Power" for the second time, says he's written its author the first fan letter he ever wrote. Elsewhere on the set Donlevy, likewise in uniform, puts aside the same book (the Taylor influence) to reminisce about the first time he worked with Walter Brennan — his first movie and Brennan's first big role, in "Barbary Coast."

"I'd come out from New York to try for a part in "The Milky Way,' and didn't get it. I thought I'd go right back after my first picture, and during its making I used to sit and hear Walter—he was nervous as a cat—tell about being in pictures 12 years without getting anywhere. But look at him now—the only actor in the business with three academy awards!"

DEFENDS NELSON IN FIGHT OVER RUBBER CONTROL

Administration Will Oppose Senate Move For Separate Governing Agency.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The administration defended Donald M. Nelson's centralized control of the synthetic rubber program against a senate farm bloc attack today but found the farm group strengthened by Republican support.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said he would fight a motion by Senators Thomas (D.-Okla.) and Gillette (D.-Iowa) to bring before the senate tomorrow a measure to establish an independent rubber supply agency whose director would be given wide authority to facilitate the production of the synthetic product from grain alcohol.

On the other hand, Republican Leader McNary of Oregon said he would support the bill.

Nelson said he opposed the measure because it would divide responsibility for the success of the synthetic rubber production program. As war production chief, he assumed full responsibility himself.

He insisted he intends to do everything he can to speed the output of synthetic rubber from all sources. However, he has opposed the construction of new grain alcohol production plants on the ground that they would take vital materials needed in the manufacture of guns, ships, planes and tanks.

In its formal report on the bill, the agriculture committee said the "undisputed evidence" of its hearings was that: "The quickest way to bring about the production of synthetic rubber, with the use of the least amount of critical materials, is from the converson of alcohol from grain or forest products to butadiene (the principal ingredient necessary for the manufacture of synthetic rubber).

"There is no explanation by any responsible official of why this country in setting up a program for the production of synthetic rubber gave consideration only to untried laboratory experiments from petroleum which will require twice the time and many times the critical material needed to produce the same synthetic rubber from alcohol.

"The only plausible explanation seems to be that the dollar-a-year men in the chemicals branch of the war production board were fearful the war might end suddenly and that there might then be some surplus industrial alcohol that would provide competition for companies with which these officials have been associated for a long period of time."

ADMITS SLAYING

Transient Says He Was Paid To Kill Union Official.

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—James A. Boyd, 59, a transient and self-styled "booze fighter," stuck to his story at the San Francisco jail today that in 1937 he murdered Norman Redwood, New York "sandhog" union official for $5,000.

The sensational murder, which took place in New Jersey, has never been solved. Redwood, official of a tunnel and subway builders' union, was slain by a volley of bullets as he drove to his Teaneck, N. J., home a few hours after his union called a strike on a New York construction job.

Boyd, arrested by San Francisco police on a drunk charge, told homicide officers he come west shortly after the murder. He insisted that he had been paid $5,000 to kill Redwood, and, according to homicide officers, in describing how he was hired named names and cited circumstances strikingly parallel to the information now in the hands of New Jersey police.

FLASH FLOODS LEAVE 10 DEAD

Hundreds Left Homeless as Waters Sweep Upper Allegheny River.

(By United Press)

BRADFORD, Pa.—At least 10 persons were known dead today in floods which swept the upper reaches of the Allegheny river, leaving hundreds homeless.

Five were reported dead at Port Allegany, Pa.; three at Olean, N. Y.; one at Johnsonburg, Pa., and one at Coudersport, Pa.

A 15-year-old boy was killed by lightning near Lyndonville, N. Y., during a heavy storm accompanying the floods.

Coast guardsmen, civilian defense workers, doctors and nurses were mobilized in both New York and Pennsylvania for relief work. Families living in the lowlands were evacuated to higher ground.

A dam burst at Olean, pouring a 10-foot wall of water over 14 blocks of the town, causing property damage estimated at thousands of dollars. Only the business section and a few residential areas escaped damage. Several war plants suspended operations temporarily.

The storage dam of the Williamson Pulp and Paper company was washed away at Austin, Pa., nearly leveling the village of 500 persons.

At Ridgway, Pa., two plants working on war orders were flooded.

Several highway and railroad bridges were swept away as the river surged, and officials feared the total damage would amount to millions of dollars.

Suspect's Guilty Plea Solves Four Thefts Of Tools

A Mansfield factory worker was held for the county grand jury today under $2,000 bond in connection with the theft of tools valued at more than $300 from garages and barns in the Mansfield area.

Arrested Saturday by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and held on a charge of breaking and entering was Stanley Turner, 27, Mansfield, R. D. 3. Turner pleaded guilty when taken before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch this morning.

Sheriff Robinson recovered the tools in a barn on the Lexington-Springmill road near Turner's home. Included in the loot were electric drills, saws, chisels and hammers.

The sheriff said Turner admitted taking some of the tools as early as last May from at least four garages, barns, and tool sheds. Some of them belonged to the Memorial Park cemetery west of the city while others were taken from the Fred Garinger garage west of the city, the site of a new home being built for Carl Oberlin, and from the home of Roy Wolgamuth near Mansfield.

SOLDIERS, CIVILIANS HUNT FOR LONE PARACHUTIST IN DESERT

(By International News Service)

LANCASTER, Cal — Military and civilian authorities today checked reports that a lone parachutist had landed in the desert near Lancaster.

The sheriff's substation at Lancaster announced late last night that the parachutist was sighted by two ranchers whose names were withheld at 9:10 p. m. (PWT).

The unidentified eyewitnesses said that the parachutist bailed out of a single-motored airplane at a low altitude over the desert area six and a half-miles east of Lancaster.

They reported that the plane circled the area several times before the chutist plunged earthward. The plane immediately sped away.

Authorities said that no army planes were flying in the desert area at the time the chutist was reported. The air raid listening post at Roosevelt reported hearing a single-motored plane at about the time the sheriff's substation was notified of the chutist.

Three squads of deputy sheriffs, two squads of highway patrolmen and a large body of soldiers from nearby Muroc Lake were dispatched to the desert immediately to search for the reported chutist. FBI officials were notified immediately.

Government To Reveal Stand on College Draftees Soon.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt said today the government would announce soon a definite policy on college men in the draft and coordination of America's 1,800 colleges and universities with the war effort.

George F. Zook, president of the American Council of Education had charged the government with failure to use the institutions.

Zook wrote McNutt, the secretaries of war and navy and draft headquarters that this "failure" had confused students and educators. McNutt said he had not yet received the letter, which had also been sent to the press.

5 MANSFIELD BROTHERS SERVE U. S. FORCES AS 2 MORE LEAVE

When two Mansfield brothers, Ray H. and Larry V. Stevens, left Mansfield this morning, they brought to five the total number of Stevens brothers serving in Uncle Sam's armed forces.

Chief Petty Officer William G. Cox, recruiting officer, listed the brothers along with two other Mansfield youths and a Lexington man who went to Cleveland today to be sworn into the navy.

The Stevens brothers will join Leslie, who enlisted five years ago, and Archie S. Stevens, who entered the navy last May. Another brother is a member of the Army Air corps.

Larry lived with his father at 181 East Third street while Ray resided at 178 East Second street. They are the sons of Samuel Stevens.

Accompanying the brothers when they left this morning were Donald S. Bookwalter, Mansfield R. D. 1; True F. Nihart, 181 East Third street; Sam Brucato, 282 North Main street; and Joseph J. Fackler, Lexington R. D. 1.

COMMISSION FINDS SIX OHIOANS GUILTY OF HATCH ACT VIOLATION

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Four employes and two former employes of the Ohio Unemployment Compensation bureau were found by the U. S. Civil Service commission today to have violated the Hatch act but removal from office was adjudged unwarranted.

A seventh employe, Ferdinand J. Waterman, was found innocent of the charges brought against the entire group—pernicious political activity. The proceedings in this case were ordered dismissed.

Those found to have violated the act were Mrs. Emma Jeanne Hawkins, Mrs. Edith Wolstein, E. B. Boggs, James M. Patchell, Dwight M. Petrie, and William C. Schwemlein. All respondents were employed in the Cincinnati office, but the commission said it understood Petrie and Schwemlein no longer were state employes.

The commission found that Boggs, Patchell, Petrie and Schwemlein had been called into the office of the Cincinnati office manager and were assigned to solicit political campaign contributions from a group of employes. It added:

"When violations * * * occur pursuant to a plan handed down official channels in an organization—the lower the rank of an offender the less the culpability, other factors being equal."

Concerning Mrs. Hawkins and Wolstein, the commission said it had given particular consideration to the fact that neither had official supervision over those approached by them in regard to contributions, "or indeed over anyone." It added:

"Had either respondent been vested with official authority over those solicited we would have deemed it a circumstance of aggravation."

The feature "Laffa-Day" which usually appears in this space has been delayed in delivery. It will be resumed at the earliest possible moment.

Up and Down THE STREET

Scores of Richland county motorists are wearing out their tires on needless trips to Mansfield because they don't understand what's required of them when they apply for tire-purchasing permits. Members of the rationing board serving the county rural districts said a large number of car owners fail to bring their certificates of title when they apply or drive to the city when the rationing board office is not open. Then they have to make an extra trip. Certificates of title and drivers' licenses are necessary in applying. The board for the rural districts has headquarters in the building at the northwest corner of Park avenue west and Bowman street and the office hours are from 2 to 4 p. m. daily except Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.

First woman in the Richland county area to be accepted for officer training in the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps, (Wackies in British) is Miss Lois House, librarian at Willard public library during the last eight years. Miss House will report for an eight-week course Aug. 17 at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, where 30 other Ohio and West Virginia young women started training today.

CANNON BOOMS TO START DAY AT WAAC POST

Ranks of Trainees Will Be Raised To 770 By Tonight at Fort Des Moines.

(By United Press)

FORT DES MOINES, Ia. — A cannon's roar opened the training of the first women's army in the history of the nation today.

Two hundred rookies of the Women's Auxiliary corps jumped out of bed and dressed for their first formation. It was 6 a. m., about two hours earlier than most of them were accustomed to hearing the alarm clock in civilian life.

There were only 200, because all of the first group to be trained as officers and auxiliaries had not arrived. But by tonight, 440 officer candidates and 330 basic auxiliaries will be in the elm-shaded barracks of old Fort Des Moines, a former cavalry post. By the end of the year, there will be 5,000.

Eight officer candidates — six white and two Negro — received uniforms yesterday afternoon.

They included Natalie Reebel of Youngstown, O., and Dorothy Thompson of Frazeysburg, O. The Negroes were Vera Harrison of Wilberforce, O., and Mary Bordeaux of Louisville, Ky. The uniforming of the rest began today.

Their first three days in the army will be spent in a processing program: checking in, examination of travel orders, physical examination, assignment to barracks, issuance of clothing, classification according to aptitude and immunization against disease.

The first arrivals yesterday got little fanfare; none, in fact, from 900 regular officers and soldiers at the fort, who received them as matter-of-factly as they would have so many male recruits.

Col. Don C. Faith, commandant, headed the reception committee which met Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the WAAC, when she arrived from Washington. Mrs. Hobby, whose rank is equal to that of a major, wore a trim cotton gabardine uniform with a belt and two, buttoned flap breast pockets.

On the train with her were 100 WAACs from all over the nation—tall WAACs, short ones, blondes, brunettes, red-heads, and gray-heads, ranging in age from 21 to 50.

They included housewives, stenographers, teachers, telephone operators, clerks and social registrites.

Soldiers showed them to red-brick, two-storied barracks which surround the parade ground. They swarmed into the barracks, inspected steel lockers and bounced on their iron cots to test them for comfort. They smoked, repaired their makeup, and examined the fort in gay summer prints, slacks and tailored suits.

Try To Save Life Of Child Chained In Attic Of Home

PARSONS, W. Va.—(AP)—Doctors and nurses sought today to save the life of a small boy who "acted just like a little scared animal" after he was found chained in the attic of his mountain home.

A physician reported the two and a half-year-old child was in critical condition, suffering from malnutrition and body sores, and expressed the belief the tot could not survive. He weighed only 15 pounds when found.

State Police Corporal G. W. Busch said there was no indication how long the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lougary of Millersburg, had been punished, or for what reason he was chained.

State police and department of public assistance officials found the boy, a large rope about his neck and shoulders.

Two other children in the family, an older girl and a year-old boy, were reported by the physician to be "perfectly normal" and apparently not mistreated.

Corp. Busch said the parents, both about 24 years old, had been arrested on a warrant charging cruelty and placed in the Parsons jail.

REDS MASSING FOR NEW STAND BEFORE ROSTOV

Retreat in South But Push Enemy Back in Fierce Voronezh Battle.

for ten days in the area between the Donets and the Don.

The Germans, in possession of Vorozhilovgrad 100 miles north of Rostov and pounding the Russian steppes south of Millerovo on the railway, apparently were approaching the junction of the railway and the Donets river at Kamensk, 85 miles north of Rostov

The Russians, after blunting for the moment the Nazi drive eastward toward the Volga, did not minimize the threat and were throwing everything available, including American and British tanks and planes, into the fight.

"Our men are still sacrificingly and courageously mauling the enemy," the Russians said of fighting south of Millerovo. It was admitted Soviet troops had withdrawn to fresh positions after the Germans threw new infantry and tank formations into the battle.

Today's communique acknowledge the Germans were concentrating men and weapons in the south for the drive on Rostov, but said the Russians were stubbornly resisting "numerically superior enemy forces."

However, in another sector of the Millerovo battle, the Russians said they had broken up a German wedge, killing more than 1,200 Germans and destroying 15 tanks, 10 guns and 60 machine guns.

The withdrawal from Voroshilovgrad apparently was ordered to prevent an encirclement of the defenders along the Moscow-Rostov railway south of Millerovo.

Around Voronezh, the picture was brighter for the Russians. Dispatches from that front reported Soviet forces were improving their positions and delivering counterblows of increasing strength. To the south, a Soviet unit moved into an "important inhabited locality" after a three-day attack, and a violent battle for another German bridgehead on the Don was reported in progress.

The show of strength at Voronezh and German reports of large Russian troop concentrations in that region seemed to indicate that a Russian counteroffensive of considerable scope was in the making.

The increasing tempo of aerial warfare was indicated in a Russian announcement that 211 German planes had been destroyed in last week's fighting against Russian losses of 136 planes.

The Germans were reported to be making increasing use of their parachute troops and the Russians said that in one sector, apparently south of Millerovo, a "German parachute party which landed in the rear of our troops was completely annihilated."

A battalion of German infantry attacked a Soviet unit in the Kalinin region, northwest of Moscow, but the Russians beat off the attack, today's mid-day communique said.

Of the fighting near Voronezh, the communique said a day-long battle in a populated place resulted in victory for Russian infantry and tankmen.

RAF Bombers Hit Nazi U-Boat Yards

LONDON—(AP)—Four-engined bombers of the Royal Air Force raided northwest Germany last night, including submarine building yards at Vegeseck, the air ministry announced today.

Vegesack is 10 miles northwest of Bremen.

"Three of our bombers are missing from these operations," the air ministry said.

The blow against northwest Germany was the fourth in as many days, having been preceded by three daylight smashes against the Ruhr and submarine construction centers at Luebeck and Flensburg.

Yesterday by daylight RAF fliers in Boston bombers attacked targets in the German-occupied Lille and Bethune areas, including power stations at Chocques and Mazingarbe.

BOOK EXPLAINS JAP VIEWPOINT

Ancient Volume Outlines Strange Beliefs of Nipponese.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The strange complex which leads the Japanese to assume the belief of superiority over the rest of the world is explained partially by an ancient book in the Smithsonian Institution.

Completed about 712 A. D., the book known as the Ko-Ji-Ki is the Nipponese counterpart of the book of Genesis. It describes the creation of the world and the divine ancestry of the present emperor of Japan.

According to the Ko-Ji-Ki, the creation of the earth resulted from the union of two dieties, His Augustness Male-Who Invites and Her Augustness Female-Who-Invites, who stirred the ocean with a jewelled spear.

The brine that dripped from the end of the spear became the island of Onogoro. These gods then gave birth to the other islands of Japan and to various gods who make up the complicated Shinto mythology.

After being pursued by the hosts of Hell, Male-Who-Invites purified himself by bathing in a stream. From each article of clothing he threw down and from each part of his body were born new gods and goddesses, including the Sun Goddess. One of her children—of whose legitimacy "she has some doubts," according to the book—was a certain Jim-mu Ten-no whom she assigned the relatively unimportant job of Japanese Emperor.

Jim-mu Ten-no is, in theory, ancestor of the present Mikado.

Written in Chinese, the volume was the work of a scribe, Yusumaro, assigned to the task by the Empress Gemmio. Yasumaro wrote the book from the verbal account of a man who had memorized the legends of the principal families.

The Ko-Ji-Ki is not accepted literally by the educated classes in Japan but Smithsonian authorities say they fall back on it, subconsciously, at least, to justify the emperor's divinity. As direct descendent of the Sun Goddess, Amaratsu, the emperor indirectly bestows racial superiority upon his people.

came down to 1,800 feet where they could see to work. The Japs threw up an umbrella of anti-aircraft and one Liberator caught a chunk apparently in the bomb load. He was there in formation one second and the next he came apart in a searing blast that rocked the other planes.

The remaining four planes revised their technique and climbed to 18,000 to drop their loads. As they left, one heavy cruiser lay flaming in the harbor, hit squarely by heavy bombs.

Before the day was over the Catalinas made seven separate attacks.

One Catalina caught a submarine on the surface en route. Before the sub could rig for diving the Cat was on it with a load of heavy bombs. The sub broke up and sank without firing a shot.

Another Catlina got two near misses on a large destroyer with 500-pounders and another did the same with a light cruiser. In their turn the Japs were doing well against the bombers. Anti-aircraft, which is not particularly damaging to most fast combat planes, is brutally punishing to ships as large and slow as the Catalinas.

The Japs showed signs of discouragement and their ships began to get under way. A Cat delivered its load on the moving ships and flew on out to Attu, the last island of the intercontinental stepping stones.

By night the bombers noted evidence the Japs planned a permanent occupation. Attu showed signs of construction work and shorebased Nakajima 97 fighters rose from Kiska, to meet the American craft. The harbor was empty of ships that night, but next day they came back, appearing in increasing numbers throughout the daylight hours.

By night Kiska's harbor held five heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, ten destroyers, two submarines, nine cargo and transport vessels, and a dozen Kawanishi flying boats, seaplane and landbased observation and fighter aircraft haunted the murky sky. Other ships were sighted arriving from the south.

The first bombing flights yesterday found something new in the way of trouble. Now carrier-based Zeroes were working over the island. It seemed to indicate the carriers' close proximity but no contact was made during the day.

While American bombers kept up their round trip destruction the Japs made a few tentative stabs eastward. Observation planes scouted along the islands as far as Umnak, just east of Dutch Harbor.

Several attacks on Kiska were driven off by Zeroes but others got through. Army bombers reported two direct hits on a heavy cruiser.

The fight goes on through the gloom of night and the practically identical gloom of day. No battle ever fought witnessed conditions so viciously unfriendly to both sides.

BRITISH SEIZE 6,000 AXIS MEN IN DESERT WAR

RAF Blasts Grounded Enemy Planes in Violent Surprise Attack.

tral sector was attacked yesterday by RAF fighter-bombers and the action was so close to the forward British lines that the ground forces attested to the accuracy of the bombing.

Reinforced by a steady flow of British and American tanks, the Imperial forces had made further gains on all three sectors of the front and yesterday, impeded by sand storms, they maintained all their positions on the dominant ridges of the northern and central areas and in the southern dust bowl.

In one of the heaviest raids of the campaign, fighter-bombers and light-bombers, escorted by fighters, fought their way through the swirling dust clouds yesterday to raid an enemy occupied airdrome west of the battle line, to destroy or damage many grounded planes and shoot down five enemy planes which were about to land.

Other planes scored direct hits on six enemy tanks in a raid on the southern area and started fires.

Heavy bombers, which may have included American army air corps planes, made a daylight attack on the Axis base at Tobruk, a communique of the Middle Eastern command and the Royal Air force said.

One Allied plane was missing from all operations.

In the north, the Australians have consolidated newly won positions on the Makhkhad ridge about four and one-half miles from the coast between El Alamein and the Hill of Jesus, the Tel El Eisa.

In the center, Indian troops holding Ruweisat ridge, made a sudden advance in a dusk action, gained new ground and held it against an enemy counter-attack supported by a few tanks.

The Germans have attacked the Ruweisat ridge, extending from east to west about 10 miles south of El Alamein, repeatedly in the last few days in their main counter-blows, trying to gain a foothold at the western end.

At the extreme southern end of the line, where the front approaches the Qattara salt bog depression, the Imperials made further progress.

They were pressing the enemy elements which for several days had been withdrawing slowly to shorten the Axis line.

Reports from pilots indicated heavy damage had been done by Allied planes, including American army air corps heavy bombers, to the enemy supply base at Tobruk on the Libya coast.

At least three enemy supply ships have been hit in recent raids and blazing oil from damaged tankers started oil fires which spread over the harbor.

Expect British To Start Counter Thrust

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Diplomatic sources in Washington today believe the British imperial armies in Egypt, supported by strong American air forces, will soon launch a powerful counterattack designed to drive the Axis legions of General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel back to the Libyan border.

While the British battle to hold the present defense line at El Alamein, tanks, anti-tank guns, planes, troops and other supplies are being rushed to the Egyptian front in preparation for the drive to eliminate Rommel's threat to Alexandria.

If the Axis armies can be prevented from breaking through the El Alamein defense line while supplies are being massed for the major counter-offensive, it is believed in diplomatic circles that the British-American forces may be able to drive Rommel back to the Libyan border.

The necessity for driving Rommel back beyond Matruh, at least, is considered to be urgent. As long as the Axis forces remain in control of Matruh, Alexandria will continue to be in grave danger.

Therefore, it is thought the British will launch their major counter-attack as soon as they feel they have enough supplies massed to carry them as far as the Libyan border.

American General Grant and General Lee tanks are expected to play an important role in the counter offensive. Other American supplies originally sent to India also are believed to be en route to Egypt.

In fact, the diversion of American planes to North Africa is believed in some Washington diplomatic quarters to be responsible for the delay in the opening of the promised U. S. aerial offensive against Germany in western Europe.

There is complete unanimity among all United Nations representatives in Washington that the middle east must be held at all cost, and it is evident that every practical implement of war that can be spared from the near east, India and even further away is being rushed to Egypt.

Continue Talks On French Warships

LONDON—(AP)—Representatives of the United States state department and British authorities at Alexandria are continuing negotiations for disposal of interned French warships there in case the Mediterranean port falls to the Axis, a foreign office commentator said today.

"Both the state department and the foreign office are working in the closest cooperation in this matter," he added.

The Vichy French government on July 13 rejected as "contrary to the honor and interests of France" a proposal by President Roosevelt to move the nine interned war ships from Alexandria to Martinique.

figures. They seem to be as accurate an indication of price levels as can be devised.

"It is my thought that we can more or less freeze wages, and then, as the commodity index rises or falls, wages can be adjusted to meet them by an order for a percentage increase or decrease."

Asked whether he thought the senate would go along with the president on his seven-point anti-inflation program, Norris asserted that he thought it might be compelled to do so.

"I don't like the idea of sweeping control over prices, wages, rents and all other things myself," Norris said, "but we are up against a situation which we may not be able to meet in any other way."

No less a Republican than Senator Harold H. Burton of Ohio, has come out for the president's seven-point program which will undoubtedly be the basis of the inflation message being prepared for delivery to congress this week. Burton has added a stern demand for further reduction in domestic spending.

The president's program calls for: 1. Heavier taxes and a limitation on big incomes; 2. Over-all price and rent ceilings; 3. Wage stabilization; 4. Farm price stabilization at parity; 5. More savings and war bond sales; 6. Rationing of all essential commodities; 7. Discouraging installment buying and encouraging payment of debts.

CAP DISPLAYS POWER IN AIR SHOW AT PORT

250 Patrolmen and 75 Planes Mass in Mansfield; Win Praise By Performance.

Representing three Civil Air Patrol groups, 75 planes and 250 patrolmen massed at Municipal airport yesterday in a display of civilian aerial defense strength.

It was the largest gathering of planes and airmen ever staged in Mansfield. There was a big crowd on hand to witness the maneuvers.

Led by Commander Kent H. Smith, 36 planes of the Cleveland CAP group bearing more than 100 uniformed patrolmen arrived at the port shortly after 9 a. m. in flights of three each.

The unit was followed closely by a flight of 14 planes from Columbus headed by S. O. Schnellenberger, commander of that group.

The Mansfield group squadron was represented by 27 planes and nearly 100 men.

Following an "early bird" breakfast the units were reviewed and inspected by Group Commanders Nollenberger, Smith, and James R. Harrington, of Mansfield, and by Lieut. E. P. Miller, of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection board in Detroit.

"For a group of volunteers they certainly conduct themselves like military veterans," he said. "Their performance was excellent."

The Civil Air Patrol represents the air arm of the Civilian defense program and is directly under the supervision of the war department.

Ideal weather brought out a large crowd and hundreds of Mansfielders witnessed the proceedings from the state park adjoining the port.

Concluding the meet was a message pick-up demonstration by Robert Hunt, Mansfield squadron supplies officer, and Otis Cummins, squadron executive officer, and a bomb dropping exhibition by William Hinde, of the Sandusky squadron. One of Hinde's six "bombs" landed square in the center of the 50-foot target. The sand and lime "bombs" were dropped from 500 feet.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 20, 1942.

It is already being noted that the "wish you were here" postcards are coming from less remote points.

Some folks are still old fashioned enough to think that the waste of a few hundred million dollars is important.

A consoling thought, in connection with the threatened ban on canned music, is the business-boosting slogan of a popular Chicago restaurant, "No orchestral din."

Bombs Could Have Been Dropped

LITTLE play of imagination would have been required Saturday afternoon to appreciate the fact that bombs instead of leaflets can be dropped from airplanes passing over a city.

Designed to publicize the naval aviation meeting to be held tonight at John Simpson Junior high school, the flight of planes over Mansfield and vicinity was recognized as a friendly mission from which there was nothing to fear.

It is different, however, in England, continental Europe, Russia, China, and other war zones, where the zoom of planes overhead brings instant thought that death and destruction may soon be raining from the sky.

The United States is also in the war and it is only to the extent that military power can hold the enemy in check that this country will be kept free of enemy attack from the air, as it is now being attacked by submarines close to the east coast.

Thus far it is engagement of Axis forces in Russia, Egypt, occupied Europe, and many places in the western Pacific, that has prevented concentration of efforts on this hemisphere, and with the Japanese gaining foothold in the Aleutian islands and apparently making ready to attack Russia, there is no immediate assurance of safey from enemy air attacks on some parts of this country, both east and west coasts being constantly on the alert.

Whatever help can be given Great Britain, Russia and China in their parts of the war against the Axis is as real a benefit to America as the things being done to strengthen our own military forces.

'Strike' Is Given Another Name

ADOPTION of the term, "work cessation," instead of calling it a "strike," may sooth the feelings of participants and their leaders but serves little purpose in satisfying the public mind that stoppage of war work, whatever it is called, is not intentional interference with the national war effort.

Leadership of organized labor—A. F. of L. and CIO—has pledged these organizations not to strike in wartime—so there can be no "strikes," but there can be such "unauthorized" work-stoppages as have been sweeping the country, and the directing heads of union groups are apparently unable to do anything about it.

No penalties are provided for this civilian interruption of war production, yet if a man in military service behaved in a similar way he would be severely dealt with.

While the public is showing willingness to support national war activities in every possible way, to the extent of physical and financial ability, little groups of organized workers, emboldened by congressional complacency and administrative coddling, are handicapping production of materials essential to successful operations of the nation's armed forces—the men and boys whose lives are at stake.

Last week-end there was stoppage of street car and bus transportation in Detroit, with resultant delays to many thousands of industrial war workers. Charges of Axis sabotage are being made in connection with this so-called "unauthorized" strike, but whether it involved sabotage or was merely an un-American act on the part of some street car and bus operators, the result was the same.

Unless internal differences can be adjusted to the point of securing honest, earnest co-operation of workers in all phases of war production, and associated industries, likelihood of reaching the vitally important all-out war effort is quite remote.

Can't Divorce Soldier Husband

DECISION by a Franklin county common pleas judge that a wife cannot obtain a divorce from an Ohioan in military service outside the state is along a line likely to enter into court proceedings in many other Ohio counties from time to time.

It is held by the Columbus jurist that "it is the duty of civil courts to protect the rights and interests of those serving our country, when it is not possible for them to appear and protect their own rights."

Richland county Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston has expressed himself in accord with this policy and has stated that he will refuse to grant divorces to wives of men in the service unless the husband voluntarily returns to defend the action.

Whatever seeming justification there may be for divorce, it appears that matrimonial hostilities should be deferred until the end of military hostilities and that men in service should not be subjected to this added worry while they are fighting for the preservation of their country.

New Era In Textile-Making

EARL HEARD, dean of the Philadelphia Textile school, recently told members of the American Home Economics association that "we are in for the greatest era of blending this country has ever seen. We have probably jumped ahead ten to fifteen years because of the war. And we are going to learn before long a great deal more about blending of fibers than we know at present."

Women have been conscious for some time that this blending was going on. The dress that looked like wool, felt almost like wool, and really gave almost as good service, was likely to be made of rayon and cotton without a thread of wool in it. These fabrics have been improving steadily in beauty and dependability for a long time.

The government has issued very rigid specifications for its fabrics, and the textile-makers have had to watch their step about giving good value. That's rather a good thing for the industry as a whole. It will end by being, as Mr. Heard puts it, "more specification-minded."

It's hard to understand why losing baseball teams can't be changed into winners—when it seems to be entirely a matter of choosing the right breakfast food.

Problem of How to Meet Debts

THE tax bill now on its way through congress has overlooked the question of debts of corporations and individuals — debts which increasing taxes will strongly tend to freeze — Arthur Krock, noted Washington correspondent, points out in an article in the New York Times.

"Yet the problem is as vital to the nation's economy as is the collection of revenue to help pay for the mounting costs of war," he writes.

Mr. Krock goes on to say:

"The committee is in a quandary what to do about the problem, though fully realizing it must do something to prevent the freezing or interminable duration of private debt and the visitation of hardship and default on the creditor class. When the draft of the bill comes back the committee must insert some sort of proposal or leave this to the less orderly machinery of amendment from the floor.

Fits Program.

"The treasury reviewed a number of methods to meet the situation, but inclined to the Scarlett O'Hara philosophy of finding a solution 'tomorrow.' This would be contrived by freezing certain obligations, such as those of indebted home owners, and financing them through government agencies, thus adding to the public debt. The treasury thus far has not given its approval to the much sounder suggestion that payments on debt principal shall be deductible from taxable income.

"Yet this arrangement will satisfy that part of the president's anti-inflation program which called for the retirement of private obligations as regularly and as soon as possible. Revenue will be affected, of course. But against that disadvantage are the perilous ones of freezing a large part of the private debt structure, impoverishing many creditors (from whom tax revenue will accordingly cease to flow) and threatening widespread bankruptcy to the population when peace shall have returned to the world and when the day of economic judgment is named again.

"What has happened is this:

"The increasing taxes on corporate and individual earnings will, in innumerable cases, fix an indefinite and irreducible debt burden. These debtors cannot possibly pay to the treasury the fixed levies, which will continue to grow for some years, and amortize their loans or meet their commitments.

"Among the solutions which have been suggested to the House committee, one has especially appealed to persons experienced in the problem. It is that individuals and corporations shall be permitted to deduct from their net incomes amounts paid in retiring debts that had been contracted by Jan. 1, 1942. This would cover preferred stocks with maturity dates of at least a year, but the deduction would not be permitted to exceed 20 per cent of the debtor's net income before the allowance was made.

"It is claimed for this proposal that, in addition to assuring the continued liquidation of corporate and private debts as the president has urged, it would be within the formula of taxation according to ability to pay.

"Under the proposed levies a corporation with a typical financial situation could not possibly pay on its debt. This corporation will earn about $400,000 this year and will retain about $69,000. But it has commitments of $1,000,000 at 3 per cent, on which the interest charge will be $30,000. It cannot possibly pay for liquidation of principal on the terms of its contract to do so. And the $39,000 it will have left represents only a fractoin of 1 per cent in earnings or invested capital.

"There are equivalent cases of individuals who made personal commitments for homes, etc., before there was any reason to expect the present and prospective tax schedules, and to these they must add insurance premiums, bonds and charity subscriptions before counting what they will have left for taxes and even subnormal subsistence.

"The spread and weight of the problem before the tax committees of congress can be better realized by an inspection of the outstanding private debt in this country. In 1940, the last year in which it was surveyed, the grand total of net private debt, according to the department of commerce, was $115,017,000,000. Experts estimate that this has since been increased by five billions, making a total of 120 billions.

1940 Debt Figures.

"The breakdown of the 1940 figures follows:

"Corporate long-term debt, $43,723,000,000; farm mortgage long-term debt, $6,910,000,000; urban real estate morigage debt, $27,080,000,000; corporate short-term debt, $20,559,000,000; individual and non-corporate, $16,705,000,000.

"These obligations affect every citizen in the United States and many abroad, and they represent the flow of credit, which is the lifeblood of the free industrail and enterprise system of operating a nation's peacetime economy.

"The contraction of these debts was encouraged in normal times as an essential factor in the country's expansion. They provided income and employment as well as industrial growth and improvement in living standards, and they were the spur to industry and invention.

Unexpected Taxes.

"Now, through no fault of their own, the corporations and individuals must meet unexpected taxes to assist the government, which needs, and should have, all that it can get to conduct the war. But, if the national economy, private ownership and the free enterprise system are to be preserved, every care must be takn to prevent a condition which would make the government the owner of every indebted article of private property.

"This is one of the hazards which must be assumed if the tax committees of congress do not soundly deal with the problem as it has now been placed before them.

"There are some political philosophers who would welcome the state collectivist solution. But over the country they remain in the small minority."

Man About Manhattan

Difficult Moments

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We learn from an AP report that while Winston Churchill was observing troop maneuvers in South Carolina, one soldier, going over a rough hurdle, broke his belt and his pants fell down around his knees. The prime minister is said to have chuckled and then turned aside while the embarrassed lad repaired the damages.

Accidents like this happen more ofter than you think. Twice, once on a stage and once in a hospital operating room, I saw the same thing happen. In a road company of "The Student Prince" a Heidelberg "student" lost his britches about three feet behind the foollights, and, as I recall now, he retrieved the situation as best he could and trundled off stage in the midst of "Deep In My Heart, Dear, I Have a Dream of You."

BUT that was nothing to what happened to the surgeon as he was amputating the right leg of a man in the operating room one morning. This operator had a fine reputation but he was eccentric as to his hospital dress. When he operated, he wore only a long pair of white, wool drawers, boots, and a rubber apron. In the midst of this amputation his drawers fell off, and without losing a motion or taking his eye from the patient, he screamed to the nurses, "Get 'em up, damn it! Get' em up!" They hitched them up and pinned them with a safety pin for the doc while he expertly sawed off the patient's leg.

THERE'S an explanation to those yoohoos and whistles that came after girls as they stroll 5th avenue, near 51st, in the vicinity of St. Patrick's cathedral. For awhile it appeared as if somebody was getting "fresh," as the kids say at the corner drug store. There would be a whistle, a long, slow whistle, followed by a voice that cried, "What you say, Kid!" But it wasn't a wolf at all. It was a pet parrot owned by a man who has an apartment nearby.

* * *

THE gas situation is so bad around here that mysterious guys hang around street corners, giving tips as to where a gallon can be had. When you get there, say at 6 a. m. (although the stations don't open until 7), there's a line of cars half a mile long. This morning there was a ten-foot gap in a line because of a driveway. A driver came by, saw it, and with much difficulty squeezed his car into the gap. It was such a tight squeeze it took him easily five minutes to get set. Then he cut off the motor, sighed happily, and picked up a novel to read while waiting. All the while a cop stood by and watched him. After he was all snugly nestled in line, reading his novel the cop sauntered up and thumbed him out of line. I have seldom seen a more furious motorist!

Unconquered People's Hatred of Nazi Invaders Cleverly Shown

MORALE of German occupational troops in Europe is weakening visibly because of open hatred of the mastered inhabitants. Sabotage, industrial slowdowns and open resistance against the Nazi invader are increasing despite frightful cost of patriots' lives.

So reports the Office of War Information in a booklet, "The Unconquered People," which makes an issue of the need of the peoples of occupied countries for help from the outside.

Resistance began, the booklet's authors set forth, almost as soon as the first shock of defeat wore off, and self preservation seemed less and less important.

Norway Started It.

Norwegians suddenly were unable to understand German commands and ignored Germans and Quislings as though non-existent. Norwegian jurists, nurses, educators and clergymen resigned, the younger and more able of them to make their way to Allied soil where they took up military training.

Belgians found unity on last Armistice day when they demonstrated before the tomb of their Unknown Soldier, the Dutch planted their tulip fields to resemble huge Dutch flags. Breton sailors with German observers conveniently became lost in the English channel and landed at English ports.

Those were the beginnings of resistance, as the booklet traces them. The underground press began to appear. Belgium now has 40 such papers, with revealing titles like "La Libre Belgique" and "Le Front de Resistance."

Radio Helps.

Regardless of consequences, people of the occupied countries cluster around short-wave broadcasts from the Allies, and men like Jan Masaryk, who was the Czech foreign minister, counsel their countrymen from London and elsewhere.

The spectacle began with sabotage, and in its summary the booklet points to such results in France as transportation delays, slipshod work in factories, damage to plants, train wrecks and spilling of grain.

"Skillful industrial sabotage, especially of complicated machinery," it is reported, "has been difficult to detect during inspection . . and has not revealed itself until the truck or tractor has taken to the road, causing breakdowns and delays.

Death In This Cargo.

"One shipment of 20 million pieces of tampered-with ammunition had to be returned to a Czechoslovak factory because if German retouch workers had attempted to attach time fuses they would have been blown sky high.

"In a factory at Letovice, important casts for urgent work were discovered hidden in a warehouse after two weeks of search. Tiny defects have been uncovered on airplane parts. Machines have been run so fast they have caught fire, or been worn out long before their normal life spans."

More spectacular still has been the armed revolt of Yugoslavs under General Draja Mikhailovitch, who, in small units, sweep down from mountain fastnesses to destroy Axis troop concentrations, burn storehouses and wreck transportation facilities. The insurgents always are well-informed of the enemy's activities. Mikhailovatch is said to control three-fourths of old Serbia and parts of Herzegovina, Bosnia and Montenegro.

Nazi Reply Is Death.

The Nazis' answer to such resistance, the booklet continues, is canceled food cards, exile, concentration camps, torture and deaths. There are numerous accounts of Nazi revenge, including the wiping out of the Norwegian village of Televaag.

Twenty-three hundred Yugoslav hostages, the booklet maintains, were put to death in two weeks in November for the killing of 26 German soldiers.

Only fragmentary stories of the patriots' resistance have been told, but they are resisting against all odds.

"The full story," the authors assert, "will not be told until the United Nations, by military action, have joined hands with the patriots in final battle for the ultimate victory.

"When British Commandos landed recently in France, local Frenchmen mistook them for a full-scale army of liberation. Swiftly turning upon the Nazis, they seized German arms and produced hidden weapons.

"This is the shape of things to come."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The Shadow of Things to Come:

The navy has pointed the way and unless every other wartime agency ignores the lesson taught by the navy experiment, our bureaucratic government is in for a streamlining of personnel and elimination of red tape which will save millions every month of war.

In mid-April, the navy department had 17,500 civilian employes here and was talking in terms of hiring 1,000 a month "for the duration."

In the face of this, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox did a daring thing. It went practically unnoticed at the time—except among the big war agency employers—and to say that they were shocked is to put it mildly. He froze navy personnel for 45 days. In other words, he said there will be no more hiring until June 1 (he since has extended the freeze 30 days to July 1).

THE result is that in two months, navy civilian personnel has been DECREASED to around 17,000, in spite of the rapidly expanding naval forces at sea. Efficiency in handling office routine and paper work has mounted. Red tape has been cut. Morale among navy civilian workers is outstripping that of almost any other department. And some other war agency personnel directors are biting their nails and wishing that their bosses had fired that first gun instead of allowing Secretary Knox to point the target with his brace of tracers.

In calling a halt to all new civilian hiring in the face of the greatest expansion in naval history, Knox ordered incompetents dropped; eager but untrained employes given special training or refresher courses; misplaced employes transferred to the jobs where their efficiency and experience would count; and unnecessary paper work cut.

Within a few days after the order had been issued, approximately 150 fulsome reports had been eliminated from the daily routine; personnel was being juggled; and the efficiency hounds, inspired by promises of bonuses and promotion, were working right through the blackouts trying to win gold stars for their various offices and themselves.

THAT'S the navy. But think what this would mean in terms of total wartime government. The government now has more than 2,000,000 civilian employes (just a little less than three times what it had two years ago) and estimates are that it will take on 500,000 more in the next fiscal year—more than 40,000 a month. A two and a half months' freeze, duplicating the navy's experiment, would eliminate more than 100,000 salaries—at the same time probably raise efficiency and cut red tape.

Will the other wartime agencies follow suit? They will unless the public is blind and dumb—and there's hardly an observer on the Washington scene these days who won't say outright that the public never was more wide awake.

Contingent of American Tanks Bolsters Allied Force In Egypt

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

THOSE stream-lined American General Lee tanks which suddenly turned up in the Libyan desert from nowhere, and were flung into the battle for Egypt to reinforce the British, may prove to be a godsend to our allies at a very critical time.

We aren't told just what the nature of this tank contingent is, but it's intimated that Gen. Auchinleck received a fairly strong measure of help.

The importance of this lies in the fact that up to this juncture Nazi Field Marshal Rommel has been superior in armored equipment.

The powerful General Lees will reduce Rommel's balance of numerical tank strength and may whittle it down to a point where Auchinleck can handle it.

There is every indication that Rommel intends to try to resume the devastating offensive which drove his steel-pointed divisions to a position only 65 miles from Britain's great naval base at Alexandria.

Brig. Gen. H. S. Sewell, British military expert, believes Rommel will go all-out in an effort to break through, since this Axis operation is an integral part of Hitler's now-or-never strategy.

Undoubtedly Auchinleck will do his utmost to maintain his present position, with his right wing anchored on the sea and his left resting at the edge of the great Qattara depression, about 40 miles almost due south. This gives invaluable protection to his flanks, an advantage which he would lose were he pushed back into the open desert beyond the depression. The unbroken desert, of course, is the terrain which would suit Rommel with his fast moving tank divisions.

There has been no recent indication of the comparative strength of the two armies. Possibly Auchinleck has from 75,000 to 100,000 men and Rommel may have something more than 100,000, but those are just estimates and we must remember that both sides have been receiving reinforcements.

Although Rommel presumably still is superior in tanks, Auchinleck seems to have the edge in air power.

On the whole, while the British position still is one of peril, it is much better than it was when the shattered British army finally was able to make a stand on its present front.

This battle of Egypt is one of the crucial engagements of the war. Should Rommel win, and be able to force his way into the Middle East across Egypt and Palestine, he might have provided the leverage necessary to complete Hitler's now-or-never drive which would at once cripple Russia and bring the fuehrer the resources he needs to continue the war.

A Farmer's Diary

Hobby Horse

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A NEIGHBOR and his family, who live on a farm in a valley south of here, came over the other evening. His good wife pulled from the back of their car a hobby horse and set it down on the lawn with the remark: "It is for your two-year-old. Our boy outgrew it long ago and it was just gathering dust over there. I thought some other little fellow might as well enjoy it."

Proudly our two littlest boys carried it into the house and while we older folk talked of crops and war and what is the world coming to, they took turns riding hilariously to every neighboring village—leaning low upon the saddle with both hands clutching their new pony's mane. Their thin young voices rose above our conversation.

Later in the evening, when our neighbors left for home, the littlest boy was still seated on his horse, rocking and shouting in gleeful praise of his eager, moving mount. It was past his bedtime, yet he protested vigorously when older sister pulled him from the painted saddle, kissed him, and carried him off to bed. And before he slept, he came running back, in his pajamas, to put the pony in the stall he had improvised between my chair and the window.

"Morning me ride again, daddy," he declared, and went slowly upstairs.

When he had gone I pulled the toy up to my chair and looked at it. It weighed less than a dozen pounds—a few pieces of painted wood, a few screws, a little glue. Those things, together with an imaginative little boy, can be most wonderful.

Two slender rockers with a heavier crosspiece fore and aft, on which were glued and fitted the horse's rear and fore feet. An inch board, jig-sawed to pony silhouette, and painted gray with flying black mane and tail. A black bridle, and a half opened, red painted mouth. Along the upper flank was spread the dark drab of a western saddle with a lone star on each rear field. The seat was a heavier wooden piece, fastened securely to the back with two long wood screws.

This toy, although worn and scratched and showing the scuff of a hard riding master's shoes, was of the sturdy sort that small boys need. I thought the pony seemed glad to be back in the riding, after his attic sojourn. And I knew that in many farmhouse attics there may be hobby horses whose former masters now are riding jeeps.

There are doubtless thousands of hearts that would feel mixed emotions at hearing my happy youngsters shout "Hi-yo-Silver!" It was of those other riders that I was thinking as I put the pony back into his stall, and went to bed.

RECALL WOOD WING DAYS IN PLANE FACTORY

Long-Time Employes Also Remember Girl Workers In 'Mother Hubbards.'

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT—(Wide World)—In the plant of the Murray Corporation of America they call them "wings for victory"—the wing assemblies of aluminum, riveted and welded with up-to-the-minute techniques for giant bomber planes and high-speed pursuit craft.

They roll along on overhead conveyors and move on wheels for last-minute assembly line work.

Only a few of the older workers in the plant recall that in the same buildings a quarter century ago other plane sub-assemblies were produced—of plywood.

It was in the Murray plant, then the factories of the J. C. Widman company, that panels for fuselages, wings and motor mountings were made for planes to train American and British pilots for that earlier war.

C. H. and C. D. Widman, brothers still with the corporation in executive capacities, recall that the sub-assemblies then were referred to as "flying woodwork." Production problems were numerous despite the fact many techniques of the automobile industry, including the overhead conveyor system, were adapted to the job.

Forming of the panels, for example, was accomplished by soaking sheets of plywood in hot water and tying them onto forms, where they were kept about 24 hours to dry into the desired shapes.

Joining presented another problem. Tests showed that rivets would pop out of joined pieces before the plywood gave way under weight. So the manufacturers used screws and glue.

The Widmans recall that they had no such difficulties as have developed in connection with keeping certain types of heat-treated aluminum sheets soft and ready for use. This problem, incident to present-day mass production of the bomber plane assemblies, has been overcome through use of portable iceboxes into which the flat aluminum sheets are stored after going through the heat-treating process.

The brothers also report that employment of young women on aircraft sub-assembly work is not new. Many were employed in 1917, but instead of the trim slacks now mandatory in the interests of safety, they wore ankle-length dresses that resembled "Mother Hubbard" costumes, and head coverings of the boudoir cap type.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Children whose curiosity prompts questions about current news events will derive information and pleasure from two new books in the children's department at the Mansfield public library.

OCEAN OUTPOSTS, by Helen Follett — With numerous photographs and maps and a readable text this book describes the places behind the news from the Pacific. The names of Guam, New Guinea, Sumatra, etc., have a new significance for both adults and children after a perusal of this book.

SONS OF THE DRAGON, by Phyllis Ayer Sowers—Moonflower was a little Chinese girl, the youngest of the Ching household. One day as she rode with her father through the streets of their city a witch-like woman gave her a green jade dragon. Moonflower had seen the woman only once before, the day of her sister's wedding. The importance of this mysterious gift and the adventures coincident with the present war as it affected Moonflower are told in this exciting and well-written tale.

Join Coast Guard With Their Own Home-Made Boat

BOSTON —(INS)— These two teen-age chaps brought their own home-made boat along when they joined the coast guard auxiliary for in-shore patrol duties.

Jimmy MacNeil and Arthur Taber, both 18, built the Shrimp II from plans clipped out of a mechanics magazine and equipped it with a second-hand motor. It was recently accepted by the coast guard and then immediately entrusted to the two patriotic youngsters who, with the aid of even younger brothers, had constructed the vessel.

They began last autumn in the MacNeil cellar with all four boys saving their allowances to pay the $100 in bills accrued for parts. It's a 16-footer, bright and shiny, and equipped with fire gun, life preservers, and a canvas cover. The slightly-used motor cost $20.

While they were still a-building the two older boys studied navigation at special coast guard classes.

"We really built the boat around the motor," Jimmie MacNeil explained. It's an inboard."

When the time came to take the boat out of the cellar, why, they just picked her up and carried her out.

HONEST-TO-GOODNESS KING A STUDENT AT UNIVERSITY

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Ohio State University claims a distinction rarely accorded any college—that of having an honest-to-goodness king as a student. He is Akweke Abysinnia Nwafor Orizu, monarch of Nigeria, a British protectorate.

Ruler of 33,000,000 people in a country five degrees north of the equator on the West African coast, "Chris" as he is familiarly known to campus associates, traveled incognito the past few years so he could be "just another student."

His country is as large in area as Germany and France together and the story of his ascent to the throne and temporary descent from it is an interestig one.

His father, King Ezengbo—Nyamba died Aug. 10, 1937. According to ancient tribal custom, eldest of the monarch's 68 sons was to take over the throne although the Nigerian Council could select one of the others at their discretion.

"Chris," who is now 22, was the favored son. Because of his background which included being given to the Episcopal church at birth, exempting him from following any of the tribal traditions, and an education at Cambridge University where he received his junior certificate the same year his father died, Chris was elected by the council to the kingship.

On the grounds that a ruler must be educated, Chris was eager to continue his schooling and was granted a leave of absence by the Council for the furtherance of his education.

Chris' eldest brother is the present ruler of the country, awaiting his younger brother's return.

Once back in his native land, he will undergo tribal ceremonies establishing him as the head of the nation. He plans to initiate many reforms which he believes are successful here and should be successful in Nigeria.

Chris will receive a Bachelor of Arts degree at Ohio State's summer convocation and then plans to continue his schooling through to a law degree before returning home.

Upon his arrival in this country he spent six months in the International House, New York City, where he founded the African Students' Association, an organization which now boasts five chapters.

He chose Ohio State for his education because "it is in the center of a great country. While at the Buckeye school, he has majored in political science and has interspersed his studies with extensive travel to learn more about "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

His palace in Nigeria, on grounds four miles square, is quite a contrast from his abode in Columbus at the International House.

FISHING LUCK MINOR FACTOR IN BIG CATCH

Expert Claims Fish Usually Strike When They Are Hungry.

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—"Fisherman's luck," according to Samuel Eddy, professor of zoology at the University of Minnesota, is a negligible factor in fishing as compared with knowledge of fish feeding habits, methods of food detection, and seasonal changes.

Writing in a recent issue of the Minnesota department of conservation's official bulletin, Eddy explained that fish such as bass, sunfish, crappies and bullheads eat about one-tenth their body weight per day during the summer, and that when this capacity has been reached, a fish will take little to no food the next 24 hours.

Walleye pike, he said, feed more after sunset and northern pike often stop feeding at sunset.

"Fish usually feed because they are hungry, although some strike because they are pugnacious," Eddy said. "For example, a male bass strikes at any moving objevt near its nest although it does not eat anything at this time."

All fish, he said, consume more food in summer than in winter, and in almost all fish growth is slower in winter than in summer. Water temperature is the chief factor in determining amount of food taken and growth, Eddy explained.

"The question whether fishes detect their food by sight, taste or smell is controversial," he said.

"Bass, walleyes and dogfish spot their prey, turn and eye it momentarily and seize it. Pickerel and muskellunge will poise, aimed at a minnow. As long as the minnow is stationary they do not strike but when the minnow moves, they strike it almost faster than the eye can follow."

Eddy said the propensity of many game fishes to strike moving objects enables the fisherman to fool them with artificial minnows, plugs and spinners.

"A little inducement through the sense of taste or swell may aid, and an angleworm or a minnow on the hook of the spinner will usually give just enough inducement to cause a fish to strike where otherwise he might not."

Fish flavor, he continued, is partly influenced by the food fish eat, although most varieties of fish have some individual flavor.

"The general fishy taste is not an exclusive property but is a property of aquatic life in general," Eddy said. "It is well to remember that from such a great variety of food ranging from decayed vegetation to fishes themselves, the flesh of all fish is formed."

SHOOT EAGLES FROM AIRPLANE

ALPINE, Tex.—(U.P.)—A strange, relentless kind of air warfare—men in planes versus the golden (Mexican) eagle—is being waged in the rugged Big Bend ranch country of Texas.

Marksmen shooting from a red-winged monoplane piloted by J. O. Casparis have killed more than 25 of the predatory birds this year. The eagles prey on lambs and young goats. Increased prices for wool and meat have made the losses more costly.

Expenses of the hunters are paid by ranchers. Casparis flies the plane, and his passenger—armed with a shotgun—kills the birds in flight. Permission for hunting Mexican eagles from airplanes was granted by the Texas legislature last year.

Russian oil wells were first dug by hand and petroleum in leather bags was hoisted by rope and pulley.

UNITED STATES WPB WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

An Emergency Statement to the People of the United States

How can you help? The answer is on this page. I hope every American citizen will read it and act on it.

D. M. NELSON, CHAIRMAN WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

A crisis exists in our war production program which can be solved only by the patriotic cooperation of the American people.

We are faced with a serious shortage of steel scrap, rubber and other vital materials.

This shortage must be filled.

By "scrap" we mean the ordinary Junk which today is lying in the barnyards and in the gullies of farms; in the basements, attics and garages of homes and stores throughout the country.

The steel industry operates on the basis of half-and-half—about 50 per cent metal from pig iron and 50 per cent remelted scrap metal.

Therefore, about 50 per cent of every tank, every ship, every submarine and every gun is made of scrap iron and steel.

The steel industry has been rapidly stepping up its production—from 67,000,000 tons in 1940 to a record-breaking 83,000,000 tons in 1941. Production in 1942 is already ahead of 1941, but we need to get production up to the industry's full capacity of 90,000,000 tons—a total equal to the output of the rest of the world combined.

This volume of production cannot be attained or increased unless an additional 6,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel is obtained promptly.

We are faced with the fact that some steel furnaces have been allowed to cool down and that many of them are operating from day to day and hand to mouth, due only to the lack of scrap.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber.

We are collecting every possible pound of scrap from the factories, arsenals and shipyards; we are speeding up the flow of material from automobile graveyards; we are tearing up abandoned railroad tracks and bridges, but unless we dig out an additional 6,000,000 tons of steel and great quantities of rubber, copper, brass, zinc and tin, our boys may not get all the fighting weapons they need in time.

Fortunately, the material exists in America's great "mine above the ground."

There is enough iron and steel on farms alone, if used with other materials, to make:

Twice as many battleships as there are in the whole world today, or

Enough 2000-pound bombs to drop three per minute from big bombers incessantly for more than three years.

Locating and collecting this scrap is going to require a canvass of every house and every farm. Even one old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

We have set up the machinery for this, but it is not perfect. It is a problem that can be licked only by American resourcefulness, American organization ability, American muscle and American will to win.

We now have in every state a State Salvage Committee of volunteers working directly under the governor.

Under these state committees we have county committees and local committees. We have special industrial committees working with executives of plants in 421 industrial centers.

In rural communities we have the County War Boards

These committees can tell you the quickest way to get your Junk into action.

In behalf of the governor and the state committee we urge every committee to organize itself into a band of "Salvage Commandos."

You can either sell your scrap to a Junk dealer or you can give it to a charity, which in turn will sell it to a Junk dealer who performs an important function by sorting it, grading it, packing it and shipping it to the right place.

We urge local charities and civic organizations to cooperate with the Local Salvage Committee and devise a plan of action and collection.

We urge the scrap dealer to cooperate as fast as he can in the collection and shipment of materials.

We urge industrial executives to appoint Salvage Managers who have both the responsibility and authority to salvage obsolete machinery, tools and dies.

We urge every farmer and every householder in America to act at once.

Go over your premises with a fine tooth comb. If you have already turned in your scrap, look again—you'll probably find more.

If you do not have enough of your own to warrant someone coming after it, form a neighborhood pool, or take it yourself to the nearest collection point.

If there is an old heater or boiler in your basement too heavy for you to move, get your neighbors to help you.

This is a People's job. It is something you can do without interfering with other war work or personal duties.

It is not enough to pile up a little stuff and expect somebody to come and get it. Most of the work is being done by patriotic volunteers with inadequate facilities. They need your help in collecting scrap material in the largest possible amounts and in getting it to the right place.

It is a direct and personal obligation to all of our boys on all fronts.

You may think, "My little bit" won't help, but your "little bit" multiplied thousands and millions of times can create a mountain of raw material which can actually turn the tide.

The situation is serious. Your help is needed now.

HOW SCRAP IRON AND STEEL GO TO WAR

The steel used in our war machines is made by melting together

1. Pig Iron (about 50%)
2. Scrap generated in the steel plant in the process of steelmaking (about 25%)
3. Scrap purchased from outside Junk sources (about 25%)

We have plenty of iron ore to make the pig iron needed. But our furnaces operate faster when there is plenty of scrap to mix with the pig iron.

This so-called "scrap" which goes into the furnaces to make the steel for tanks, ships and guns is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed. Some of the finest quality steels are made 100% from scrap.

The iron and steel scrap which you collect is bought by the steel mills from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

MOONHOLLOW + + +

CHAPTER VI

Two hours later Gordon was shaking hands with Hob Cresswell, city editor of the Denver Telegram, and Cresswell's big voice was booming a welcome. Creswell wore high-heeled dress boots, with a red star design and eagles on them. His long hair hung over his collar at the back; his mustached face was tanned.

After drinking beer in a tavern they went to Cresswell's office. Cresswell handed him a reporter's card—made out to Brad Lewis—Gordon's assumed name — and went to the files under "M." He pulled out the long green metal drawer and began thumbing through for the name Gordon had mentioned—Morley.

There were three Morleys—all permanent residents of Denver. The most recent Morley had made the newspapers when he had heaved a platter of ham and eggs at his wife.

Cresswell went to the mat and cut index, then gave up, and let Gordon look through the papier-mache forms from which photographs had been made. Copies of the photos, on newsprint, had been pasted to the back of each paper composition cut.

It was an odd assortment of men, women and children. Then Gordon quickly plucked one from the row. It was a yellowing clipping, showing a thin man with long beard, and a drooping mustache. Gordon brought the clipping to Cresswell and questioned him about it.

"Can't tell, Brad. That picture's more'n five-six years old. We don't have no story on it. Man looks like a local guy tuh me. Let's see; sure, see thet number down in the cornah — only identifyin' mark theah is—C. I'll try round up some more news about him maybe when you come round again."

"I wish you would," said Gordon. "Those eyes look mighty familiar."

Gordon's next try was at the grey City and County building. He walked past the Voorhies Memorial, the public library and the Greek theater and mounted the broad stone steps set in the semi-circular of the four-story building.

But his trip was profitless. There were no court records of a Clifford Morley. Gordon's last try was police headquarters. He left that building disgruntled. He had come to a dead end. He had missed the trail. His sole hope now of discovering anything was through Cora Leroy.

But the manager of the showy "Gold Nugget Room" told him that Miss Leroy wouldn't arrive for another week, some mistake in the booking. Gordon returned to his hotel.

He wrote Boden that he had a week solid in which to work on Americanism, that he had miffed on Morley and Leroy so far, and that all he could do was write news copy until Leroy showed on the scene. And write he did.

It was his first trip to the mountain capital, and he thrilled to its mild and bracing air and the sight of the Snowy range—those majestic sentinels of the Colorado Rockies visible in the distance from Long's Peak on the north to Pike's Peak on the south. He explored the 15 miles of land that separated the city from the foothills. He rode the 60-mile scenic route; broiled a venison steak over an open fire at Estes park, cast his voice against the flat sheer face of Long's Peak.

He wrote of that. Then he wrote of increased production of the mines; coal, silver, lead, copper, zinc and gold, and only by a chance did he find his clue. It was near the end of the week. He was deep in figures for the gold mining output for the last three years; he had been reading how the Double Jackpot gold mine had petered out several years ago and sunk into debt—and the name of the owner of the Double Jackpot was listed—Clifford Morley.

Next day he was in the shabby valley diggings office of the Double-Jackpot, about 50 miles from Denver, pumping questions at a laconic buck-toothed engineer who told him Morley wasn't at the mine. "Seen nor hide nor hair of him since the tunnel crew came out with a load, which assayed a measly dollar a ton, about six weeks ago."

"Tell you what—Mr. Lewis, you say your name is? I got a hankerin' Cliff Morley's diggin' around somewhere for a hunk of cash. He figures he might tap a fresh vein deeper down. Can't say he's wrong. This mine started off rich as hell, when Ben Iverson owned her. Then he died and his widow married Mr. Morley . . . then she died and willed Morley the mine . . . couple of years ago we lost the vein that kept us going."

The engineer explained that the Doube Jackpot had begun as the best paying tunnel on the line. The main bore was to be 35,000 feet—they had got about 25,000 done.

Worse than just having 10,000 feet more of boring to do they had to run a 5,500-foot lateral tunnel to drain the ground so new digging could be carried on. Then the miners hoped Morley's Double Jackpot might be a 4,000-car mine, and times for them would be sweet again.

"I think there's still plenty of black ore down deep," continued the engineer, "plenty of tellurium. If we hit that, and tried amalgamation we might be in the heavy money."

Gordon figured out his next move while driving back to town. Morley was no doubt dodging creditors. If Morley were hiding, there was one bait that might drag him out—a colorful bait—Cora Leroy.

The Gold Nugget room beats New York's Fifty-second street's gilded drums—beats them all hollow—for the Gold Nugget room is built on the spot where miners first dug up a 32-pound nugget of virgin ore. Maybe that was 50 years ago—but there's still plenty of ore, raw and minted in Denver, and streams of the lucre pass through the Gold Nugget room. The miners there, who need shaves badly, can get drunk on Mumm's Extra Dry. They can wash their feet in it, they're that rich.

The walls of the Gold Nugget are rough, like the inside of a good quartz paying mine. Gold powder has been sprinkled on the walls—the lights—the floors. The entrance is timbered and dark like the entrance to many a hand-hewn hole. Along the passageway are artificial skeletons, clutching pick-axes and pans. Rye is a dollar, bread and butter the same, and the manager sends you home in a cab if you go broke. There is always one cab waiting.

Gordon sat at a table in the crowded room Saturday night, his eyes fixed on the curtained passageway to the right of the orchestra.

Cora Leroy was scheduled for 10:30. He was sipping a Scotch, compliments of the house after he had shown his "Brad Lewis" press card and mentioned doing a piece of news on Miss Leroy for the Monday edition, with more to follow. The room buzzed with talk and babbled with hearty laughter—mostly of men.

The pink light in the center of the floor glowed brighter as the master of ceremonies bowed in it, saying, "Now, ladies and gentlemen, the treat of the evening with the new song and dance I've been telling you about—the fascinating, titivating, scintillating, Cora Leroy!"

She flashed out from parted curtains — the red hair like a torch. Her face was pale in the cigaret-smoke cloud; her lips moved silently until the noise diminished.

Then her voice rasped fully, growled deep down; words came out tortured as she sang.

She pranced sure-footed as a mountain goat — head high, toward the audience. From two flower baskets at her sides she drew handfulls of silver-papered chocolate kisses and threw them, left-handed at the grinning rows of men and women.

Hands whipped into the air like branches, caught the kisses. The men munched, leaning on the backs of chairs. The cigarets hung untended from slackened lips.

The smoke was heavy as morning mist and mingled with it were pungent odors, a hint of lilac perfume.

The six men on the orchestra stand complained through brass and wood, "Oh Honey, when will you ever know how I miss you so. I miss your kisses, my honey baby."

They all watched Cora. The pianist played with fingers hugging the keys—the trombone player blared at her, his pipe almost reaching her knee.

She rocked her body backward and forth, dragged back her left foot and stamped it.

She gave them a tune, swinging into the orchestra's repetition of the same refrain. A wiggle and a bend and a bow and she'd shake her shoulders and laugh loud.

"The Lorelei," said Gordon to himself. "No, they had gold hair and sat in the Nazi river. Circe, that's it, and we're the pigs."

Cora Leroy then began to roll her hips. The Gold Nugget filled with up-beat music, punctuated with rattatat from the drummer and blasts from the brasses.

All was closer. The smoke acted like a magnetic conductor for spot-light and watchers. All had shrunk to one round cylinder of light in which she danced. Blue and pink.

Lights changed. She slowed as if tired. She sang, "Won't you be my man?"

The curtains closed. The bassoon howled like a hungry wolf.

NEW YORK'S FAMED RUBBERNECK BUSES GONE FOR THE DURATION

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—New York's rubberneck buses have given their last stretch—and there will be no rebound for the duration.

"We're goin' on rationing," said the guide on the final sight-seeing bus to make its rounds. "Guess we will all have to go to work now—or join the army."

The blue and orange of the barker's cap at Times Square suggested the World of Tomorrow, but like the fair, was doomed to become part of the world of yesterday. However, the man wearing the cap was stoical.

"Sight-seeing, city and Chinatown," was all he said.

"Is this really the last day of sight-seeing buses?" he was asked.

He answered without shifting his glance from the passing throngs. "That's right."

There were six women and 14 men on that final bus. And the men included a British tar and six kilted Canadian Highlanders. The guide took his place up front, adjusted dark glasses and began talking as the bus started toward Eighth avenue; stopped for a red light.

"Now that part of town," he said, is popularly known as midtown. South of this is downtown. North of this is uptown."

The driver headed downtown.

"New York is the second largest city in the world," the guide resumed. His tone was chatty, amiable, authoritative. "First is London, second New York, third is Tokyo." The bus jolted on and he added in a kind of professional aside, "An' maybe we'll reduce some of that population."

"Hear, hear," said one of the soldiers.

"We hope," said another.

The guide thought suddenly that this was the last trip, decided to tell his flock.

"We go on rationing tonight," he said rather abruptly. "We're goin' out of business. We'll have to go to work."

"Why don't you join the army?" someone asked.

"What, with the war goin' on?" Again the tricky aside. "I was in the last one." He glanced ouside, became professional again. "That dirty lookin' building over there is the Metropolitan Opera House."

The bus passed the clock on the Metropolitan tower. The guide recited, "Every time the minute hand moves, it moves a foot—12 inches." Then came the Flatiron building; and he told how the wind in the vicinity used to harry the girls. Postcards of windswept women were sold all over the country in the Gay Nineties.

THEATERS

Hardy Story.

Andy Hardy turns a wallflower into a social butterfly in "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," showing at the Ritz. Donna Reed, a newcomer to the films, has the role of the girl and Mickey Rooney is seen in his usual role of Andy. Lewis Stone, Sara Haden, Cecilia Parker and Ann Rutherford are others in the picture that deals with Andy's attempts to help his father-judge in a broken-home case. "Romance On the Range," the co-feature, gives Roy Rogers the chance of running down bandits in customary style.

Jungle Drama.

Sabu, the young Indian lad who made his debut in pictures some years ago in "Elephant Boy," has the role of the half boy, half wolf, in Alexander Korda's film adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book," at the Park. Hundreds of wild jungle beasts were used in the picture that was filmed in California's Sherwood forest where an East Indian dream city was erected. Joseph Calleia, Patricia O'Rourke and John Qualen are in the cast. "Three Cockeyed Sailors," is the second attraction.

Sea Thriller.

Set in 1940 when America's sea borne trade was threatened by wreckers who operated out of Key West and took advantage of the wild hurricanes of the Caribbean "Reap the Wild Wind," Cecil B. DeMille's Technicolor thriller at the Ohio, tells the exciting story of a boy and a girl who helped to end the piracy. Behind the love story is the broad sweep of history, forrunner of a later day when steel-hulled pirates would wreck ships off the very same shores. Ray Milland, John Wayne, Paulette Goddard and Raymond Massey head the cast. Walter Hampden and Susan Hayware are among the players.

Shep Fields.

Shep Fields, who introduced a new type of music while his "rippling rhythm" was still at the height of its popularity brings his new instrumentation to the Madison theater Tuesday for four performances. Said to bridge the gap between the extremes of sweet and swing Fields' "new music" is based upon the quality and melodic sweep of the saxophone complemented by the instruments with which it has a kinship. The band includes four saxophones and four rhythm instruments, piano, guitar, drums and bass. "Parachute Nurse," with Marguerite Churchill tops the screen bill.

CLOSE MONUMENT

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Bunker Hill Monument, completed just 100 years ago, has been closed to the public for the duration.

Commanding a sweeping view of Boston Navy Yard and important harbor installations, the 220-foot granite obelisk has drawn tens of thousands of tourists to its observation tower down through the years.

It took 17 years to build this historic shrine, Lafayette having laid the cornerstone in 1825.

ARMS MANUAL OUT FOR U. S. GAL SOLDIERS

And They'll Wear Skirts, But That's Only Difference Between WAAC, Army.

(By International News Service)

DES MOINES—With but two major exceptions, members of the women's army auxiliary corps will adapt themselves to "soldiering" with little variation from the routine of the regular army at Fort Des Moines.

Their training will include no manual of arms.

They will wear skirts instead of trousers.

That, an officer pointed out today, will be the main difference between the routine of the WAAC and the regular army recruit.

A few minor changes are being made for the opening of WAAC training next Monday, however, as the peaceful old cavalry post is being tuned up to meet the demand of the nation's thundering war effort.

Meals will be lighter but just about the same as the boys get at army mess—and the girls will eat in mess halls like their male soldier buddies.

Sleeping in barracks, training and military education will follow the regular army routine. The women soldiers will be vaccinated like the average army man for small pox, tetanus and typhoid

Meanwhile, all service facilities are being doubled at the post to handle the huge increase in population soon to converge upon the fort.

Because the post exchange was too small to handle the 7,000 women who will be training by Dec. 7, another "P-X" will be built at the south end of the post grounds, and an additional theater, service club and church are to be provided.

Thus, in a few weeks, has venerable old Fort Des Moines been transformed into a training center.

To Lieut. Floyd H. Meyer, post exchange officer, falls the jobs of supervising both exchanges and the 20-operator beauty parlor.

He will stock a "standard line" of commodities, including everything the average woman would need in the way of supplies, from automatic pencils to cosmetics.

WAACS will be able to buy their cigarets for 13 cents instead of the 18 cent Iowa retail price. All items carried in the exchanges will be available for the women at about 25 per cent below retail, Lieut. Meyer said.

(Cosmetics may be used by the WAACS, but ever-so-gently, one officer hastened to explain. When the girls are on leave or off the posts, however, they may dress in civilian clothes and use whatever sort of makeup they wish.)

The WAACS won't have to buy their supplies at the post exchange. They will be able to shop in downtown Des Moines, five miles away by streetcar, when they obtain leave.

LUMBERJACKS IN CLEAR

ASHLAND, Me.—(U.P.)—Although they have not registered for the draft, 200 eligible lumberjacks in surrounding forests face no prosecution. Officials at nearby Fort Kent say the men will be enrolled as soon as a special registrar can reach them.

MARY MAXINE BUSH WEDS H. R. LANTZ

Many Friends and Relatives of Couple Attend Lovely Ceremony Sunday Afternoon in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church.

LIKE THE WEDDING that every girl dreams of having, was the lovely ceremony Sunday afternoon in which Miss Mary Maxine Bush became the bride of Pvt. Harry Robert Lantz of the United States Marine Corps. The bridegroom's blue Marine uniform and red accents with the traditional white wedding attire and decorations created an impressive military atmosphere. St. Matthews Lutheran church was filled to capacity with relatives and friends of the couple, when Miss Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray. G. Bush, 119 Vennum avenue, and Mr. Lantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lantz, 254 South Mulberry street, exchanged vows.

Dr. Charles F. Sheriff performed the service at 2:30 o'clock before a background of Oregon huckleberry, palms and ferns intermingled with bouquets of white gladioli and gypsophilia. Specially constructed candelabra in the center held 21 white tapers. White satin ribbons marked the pews along the muslin-covered aisle. Ushers were Ray Bush, Richard Sattler, Richard Wendland and James Litchenberger. Red carnations were worn in the lapels of their white coats.

For the program of nuptial music which preceded the ceremony, Mrs. Fred A. Lewis was organist and Miss Doris Bush, sister of the bride, was soloist. Mrs. Lewis played "At Dawning," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Indian Love Call." Selections by Miss Bush were "Love Sends a Gift of Roses," "L'Amour, Toujours L'Amour," "Because," and "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Lewis played "The Marine Hymn" preceding "The Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." During the ceremony, "Intermezzo" was played softly as a musical background. The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her picturesque gown was of white ninon, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and lace inserts at the shoulders and midriff. The full skirt extended into a train. Sleeves were long and the back of the gown was trimmed with buttons from the neckline to the waist. The bride's fingertip length veil was worn virgin style.

The bouquet carried by the new Mrs. Lantz was of stephanotis, swansonia and gardenias with a shower of white satin ribbons tied to swansonia.

Main of honor for her sister was Miss Louise Bush, whose white faille gown was made with a sweetheart neckline, full skirt gathered to a fitted bodice, and short, puffed sleeves. Red ribbon trimmed the sleeves and waistline. Red shattered carnations tied with narrow white ribbons formed the bouquet carried by Miss Bush. In her hair she wore an arrangement of the same flowers tied with red ribbons matching those on the dress.

A beige ensemble was worn with turf accessories by Mrs. Bush, mother of the bride. Her corsage was of gardenias and Talisman roses tied with Talisman colored ribbon. Mrs. Lantz, mother of the bridegroom, appeared at the ceremony in a rose lace dress trimmed in dark blue. Her flowers were gardenias and dark blue delphinium tied with matching ribbon.

Mr. Lantz served as best man for his son.

From the church, the bridal party and members of the immediate families went to the Bush home for the wedding luncheon. The home was decorated with white gladioli. Table appointments included the wedding cake and white tapers. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Raymond Beal and the Misses Nancy and Carolyn Cox.

When Mr. and Mrs. Lantz left for New River, N. C., where the bridegroom is stationed, the bride was attired in a Kelly green and white suit with matching accessories. They will make their home in New Bern, N. C. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lantz are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. The latter has been employed in the H. L. Reed company store and is a member of Delta Sigma Zeta sorority.

Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Tressel and daughter, Mary Lou, of Canton; Harry Lytel, sr., of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Garrison and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Milo Snader of Ashland.

1943 Is The Year To Buy That Fur Coat

By DOROTHY ROE
Wide World Fashion Editor

SO YOU'RE going to buy a new fur coat.

You can't buy that new automobile this year, and soon you won't be able to spend your money on refrigerators or vacuum cleaners, radios or sewing machines. So this looks like the time to shoot the works on that perfect fur coat you've always wanted.

Lady, you're in luck, because fur coats in this year of war and shortages are plentiful, beautiful, and no more expensive than before. Since this is an important investment, it's a good idea to start thinking now just what kind of coat you're going to buy, how to get the most for your money, and how to select a style and pelt that will serve your own particular needs.

The big news in fur coats of the 1943 season is functionalism. Lines are simpler and straighter. Coats are cut with deep armholes, an easy swing, so you may wear them over a tweed suit or an evening dress, as you like.

In the medium-price range, three of the most beautiful, practical and popular furs are Alaska seal, Persian lamb and sheared beaver. Each of these you may buy in finger-tip length, three-quarter or full length, and each may be worn over suit, afternoon frock or evening gown. All will give long wear, look smart and opulent for years, if you take care of them.

Box, fitted and swagger coats are all good this season, but the loose, casual styles have the fashion edge. There is a new look to shoulders, which are broad but softly tailored. Roomy mandarin sleeves are news, and there is a distinct tendency toward severe tailoring.

If this is your year for a fur coat, make up your mind to buy the best one you can afford. "Bargain" furs seldom are worth what you pay for them. Go to a reliable furrier, and put your trust in him. You may pay any price for a fur coat, from $100 to $25,000. And you can find good workmanship, flattering lines, in any price range.

She will leave Aug. 15 to begin her interneship at the Little Traverse hospital in Petosky, Mich.

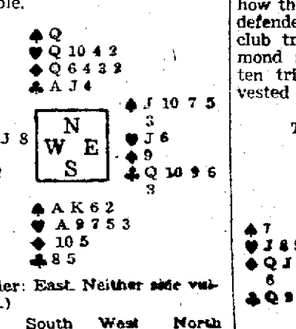
"The Authority on Authorities"

POSTPONING TRUMPS

You cannot afford to run trumps, at the start of your play of a hand, if some of those in your hand or the dummy are needed first for ruffing out certain losers before the trumps so used get dropped on trump leads. That is the primary reason for not leading them. But the second, and equally vital reason, can come if in leading them you are likely to lose a trick to the defenders while you still have a loser in another suit which they can pick off. In that case, it may be better to get a discard of that loser first, if possible.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	2 ♠	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

West led his diamond K and then, not wishing to risk setting up the diamond Q for a later discard by South, decided to hammer that club A out of the dummy at once as a possible entry, using the club K for the purpose. South let this rattle him. After winning the trick in dummy, he led the heart Q, let it ride to the K, and beat himself thereby, for West immediately cashed his diamond A and then led the club 7 to the J and Q for the setting trick.

South could have made his contract, after winning that second trick with the club A, by using his spades to discard clubs from dummy. The third trick could have been the spade Q, then the heart 2 could have gone to the A, and the spade A and K could have furnished discards of the dummy's last two clubs. No matter how the rest of the play went, the defenders could not have made a club trick, but only another diamond and the heart K, so that ten tricks could have been harvested by South.

Tomorrow's Problem.

If North bids 1 spade on this deal, South 2-Clubs, West 2-Diamonds, North doubles and East passes, should South leave in the business double? If not, why not?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Your boast is an idle one, based wholly upon conjecture," I told Ruth Hayes, and tried to make my voice and manner infuriating, in the hope that she might lose her temper and reveal more of her errand. "I am waiting to hear your proofs of that boast. If you cannot give them, I must renew my request that you leave the apartment."

That there was no danger of her leaving unless forced out or threatened with force, I saw with relief, I had not failed my father, who I knew was listening to every syllable of the conversation, and I waited with outward frigidity, but fairly boiling inside, to hear her answer.

"You underestimate me, both you and your silly milk-and-water friend," she taunted. "Do you think I do not know that she is searching all the hospitals in the city and surrounding suburbs, thinking she may be able to find Jack, although whether she wants to nurse him back to health or to sneak him a dose of arsenic nobody knows."

"If you know all this," I said measuredly, — "and please note that I am admitting nothing — your knowledge has been gained through highly suspicious channels. Besides, I am getting exceedingly tired."

Ruth Is Startled.

I paused to watch her reaction, but her poise was undisturbed and I went on.

"Will you state in plain words your object in coming here?" I demanded. "It certainly was not for the pleasure of calling me a liar, or of boasting of your relations with Jack—you have none, by the way—but you must want something. What is it?"

She started perceptibly when I told her that she had no relations with Jack.

"So you have seen Jack," she said. "I thought so! And this hospital business is only a blind, designed to keep Katharine occupied. You probably can't trust her nushiness. She'd give away the whole works.

"So now I can come down to cases. I've found out what I wanted. You've seen Jack. You know where he is. And you're going to give me that information now, if you know what's good for you."

I once laughed at the description of a voice as "dripping distilled venom," but there was no mirth in me now, as I felt that those words perfectly described Ruth's voice. It also showed grim determination and, although I do not count myself a coward, I was glad indeed to hear my father's voice from the doorway behind me.

"You will leave ths apartment at once," he said icily.

She turned to face him, and I noted to her credit that she did not flinch, even when she saw Ronald's youthful athletic figure behind my father.

"Yes?" she drawled insolently. "Well, it will take both of you to make me do that, and even then I'm not so sure. I'm pretty husky, and I warn you I shall kick and scream. I don't imagine you'll enjoy the scene, nor will the hotel management."

Threatens Arrest.

"The hotel detectives are on their way up," my father said imperturbably. "They will be here any second. And if you do not go peaceably, I not only shall have you removed forcibly from this apartment, but I also shall have you taken to the nearest police station. I ought to do that anyway. From what I have overheard the federal authorities ought to be interested in your movements."

I had been watching her eyes as she listened to him, and I saw in them a distinct flash of panic. Then it vanished, and her head went up defiantly.

"I am not afraid of your threats, you doddering old fool," she said, "but I'll go simply because I can see it's no use staying. I'd have choked the information I want out of her lying throat, but three of you are a bit too much."

"I will accompany you to the elevator," my father said calmly. "Thus you will be spared the indignity of having the hotel detectives escort you."

She was already at the door, but over her shoulder she flung a challenge at me.

"You and your mewling friend Katharine will be sorry for this!" she said.

FAIR or FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
NEA Sports Editor

(Flash-Hitting for Rex Hess, Sport Dodger.)

The New York Yankees have headed west for a long road trip with a 10-game lead in the American league pennant race and with one of the few cases of insubordination ever encountered by Manager Joe McCarthy. Catcher Buddy Rosar has jumped the club. It must be the heat. He wants to be a cop in Buffalo, instead of a well-paid second string catcher about to collect $5,000, give or take a few dimes, for watching the World series from the dugout.

Refused permission to go home for police examinations, Rosar simply skipped out at a time when Bill Dickey is unable to get behind the bat because of injuries, leaving only Rookie Ed Kearse to handle yesterday's double-header with the Chicago White Sox.

McCarthy, upon learning that Rosar had wandered off threatening, reportedly, to quit baseball, immediately signed up Rollicking Rollie Hemsley, who had been unconditionally released by the Reds. Kearse was sent back to Newark to make room for Hemsley who promptly caught a plane from Cincinnati and then caught both of yesterday's games. The Yanks won 'em, as you must know, while the Boston Red Sox were dropping two, and the champions judged that much nearer to the pennant.

Rosar has walked out on all that, but is expected to come back by about Tuesday, according to Manager McCarthy. He thinks his roaming backstop will rejoin the team at Cleveland tomorrow, whereupon he will be fined and may be suspended. If he doesn't show up by tomorrow, there is no telling what will happen to him. McCarthy is slightly peeved and his temper won't improve as time goes along.

Rosar is either a man of great foresight and courage, or a whack. He knows what he wants—to become a cop. Apparently, he knows equally well what he doesn't want—that bundle of World series cash, unless he can straighten himself out upon his return to the club, if and when.

Because of his batting slump and his lack of flash as a backstop, he is wise to look ahead to the future, but it just so happens that he picked the wrong time to make his move. Whatever their short-comings may be, the Yankees are notorious for their team spirit and personal unselfishness in behalf of the Yankee cause.

* * *

The erstwhile Rollicking Rollie, who turned over a new leaf one day, is in top shape, according to what Cincinnati officials told McCarthy, and he must be to get this last minute chance with the Yanks, who tolerate no nonsense.

By way of starting off as a Yankee yesterday, he made two hits in the first game for the Yankees and three in the second.

When Rosar gets back he may find a new mule permanently in his stall.

CANTON TERRIERS MOVE INTO THIRD BERTH

CANTON —(AP)— The Canton Terriers advance to the third berth of the Mid-Atlantic league standings today, and Dayton fell to fourth.

The Terriers did it by whipping Springfield 4 to 3 yesterday. They got all their runs in the first two innings and then stayed off a threatened Cardinal rally in the ninth when the visitors loaded the bags but couldn't deliver.

Dayton lost to Charleston, 4 to 3, and Erie and Zanesville split. The Cubs took an afternoon game 6 to 3, and the Cubs the nightcap 6 to 4.

SEGURA HAILED AS NET STAR FOR 1942

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Francisco Segura's South American way of playing tennis marked him today as the outstanding star of the 1942 amateur tennis season.

Segura, Ecuadorean champion, won his fourth title in as many weeks yesterday when he defeated Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., 7-5, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, in the final of the eastern men's singles clay court tournament.

It was his first victory over Schroeder, who currently is the highest-ranked American amateur.

Yanks, Dodgers Invade

Champs Win Two But Cards Trounce Brooklyn.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

IT MAY be only a ball yard but there's no place like home, especially to the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers, who are finding the path toward major league pennants rockiest in foreign climes.

The Yankees, who found the going tough last time on the road, concluded an enjoyable home stay yesterday by walloping the Chicago White Sox twice and extending their winning streak to nine games. Scores were 9-2 and 12-0.

Tomorrow they open another swing through the dangerous western sector, armed with a ten-game lead which the Cleveland Indians helped them compile by knocking off the second-place Boston Red Sox twice, 10-7 and 4-0.

Brooklyn's National league pace setters, who stop off on their way home tonight to make up a game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, found the Cardinals somewhat tougher in St. Louis than they've been at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers were more than holding their own on this trip until they visited St. Louis, where the Cards grabbed three games out of four, including yesterday's double defeat which reduced the margin between the two to half a dozen games.

The Yankees, meanwhile, produced the surprise of the season when they suddenly lost one cog of their machine, picked up another, and rambled merrily on.

Catcher Buddy Rosar, elevated to a regular starting post because of Bill Dickey's shoulder injury, jumped the club and went home to Buffalo to try for a policeman's job, leaving the Yanks with only one able-bodied backstop, Rookie Ed Kearse.

But the Yanks promptly signed Rollie Hmsley, who was cut loose by the Cincinnati Reds only two days before. Hemsley caught both games yesterday. Joe DiMammio extended his batting streak to 17 games with his 14th homer, a double and two singles.

At St. Louis, the Cardinals beat Whitlow Wyatt and the Dodgers, 8-5, in the opener but it took an 11th inning homer by Enos Slaughter to decide the nightcap, 7-6, and each team lost a valuable hand.

Pete Reiser, Dodger center fielder and current major league batting leader, crashed into the wall attempting to field Slaughter's smash inside the park and was taken to a hospital. Physicians said he would be kept several days for treatment of a moderate concussion.

Mort Cooper, who pitched his 12th win for the Cards in the first game, suffered a recurrence of an old arm ailment and retired in the eighth inning. He was told to remain out of action a week or ten days.

Elsewhere in the National league, the Pittsburgh Pirates moved into fifth place ahead of the Chicago Cubs by beating the Boston Braves, 8-7 and 9-0.

* * *

Bucky Walters pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 triumph over the New York Giants in one game, but the Giants tripped the Reds and Johnny Vander Meer, 4-3, in the other.

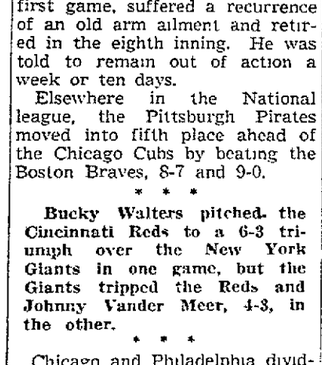
Chicago and Philadelphia divided their doubleheader, the Phils winning the first game, 8-5, and the Cubs the second, 8-4

The St. Louis Browns snapped a five-game winning streak for the Washington Senators, taking a double bill, 5-3 and 6-3.

The Detroit Tigers halted their six-game losing streak by downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1, but the A's bounced back to take the nightcap, 4-3.

Lou's Making It



After many rave notices last year, Lou Novikoff, slugging outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, failed dismally and went back to the minors. This year, given another chance to make good, Lou is fast reaching his stride, now hitting over .300 for the first time in his major league career.

PLAN TURF DOUBLE FOR SERVICE RELIEF

SALEM, N. H. —(INS)— And now it's a double-header horse racing card.

Scheduled to open an 18-day meeting today, Rocking Park officials carded a special program of 15 races beginning at 10 a. m., August 5. Proceeds will go to army and navy relief funds.

Tribe Wins 2; Presses BoSox

Indians Finish Tour; Find Selves 11 Games Out.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Returning today from eastern hunting grounds, the Cleveland Indians found themselves only one game behind the second place Red Sox.

Cleveland's double-header victory over Boston at Fenway park yesterday gave the Tribe six triumphs in 11 games along the seaboard, but failure to win a single game in New York dropped them 11 games out of first place. That is where they will be when they open their 15-game home stand against the world champions tomorrow night.

The Redskins captured yesterday's opener 10 to 7, but had to go 12 frames to get it, whereas Mel Harder captured a 4 to 0 night-capper on three hits. The second game was called at the end of seven innings by Beantown's Sunday law.

The Tribe led 7-4 when the Bisox came to bat in the home half but Boston rallied for three runs and tied up the game.

There was no more scoring until the Tribe broke loose in the 12th inning. Kenny Keltner and Jeff Heath opened with doubles, and Heath advanced to third on a wild pitch. He was held there while Les Fleming was thrown out, but Roy Weatherly got to first on a walk.

* * *

Ray Mack then drove in the second run of the inning with a single, and Weatherly advanced to third base. Denning bunted near the mound, and Weatherly scored when Catcher Bill Conroy dropped the throw. It was more than enough to win the game, for the Red Sox went down in order.

Harder's victory in the second game was accomplished without his glasses, which he removed because of the humidity. Otherwise the veteran was not bothered.

Amateurs Get Set For Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO—(INS)— Golf's greatest show of the year—two tournaments in one—began today with the opening of the All-American amateur golf tournament, with the $15,000 Tam O'Shanter open to start Wednesday.

Approximately 240 of the Simon Pures were on hand for the amateur tourney. They were down for 18 holes of qualifying play today and another 18 holes tomorrow. After this the 64 low scorers will play 36 holes a day until the championship is decided Saturday.

There will be two 18-hole match play rounds Wednesday and Thursday, followed by the 36-hole semi-finals Friday and the 36-hole windup Saturday.

The quest for the money prizes and the glory in the Tam O'Shanter open will start coincidentally with the match play in the amateur Wednesday. This will be an 18-hole qualifying round.

Entries For Midget Races Here Swell

Entries for the championship midget auto races at the Mansfield fairgrounds next Sunday afternoon point to a record list of entries for the last event until after the war.

An electric timing device will be brought to Mansfield for the timing of the events and Pat Monahan, well known starter from Steubenville, will officiate. Arrangements are being made to make the track dustless by application of calcium chloride.

Mansfield All Stars Drop Short Game To Toledo Club

Mansfield All Stars dropped a 2-0 decision yesterday afternoon at Liberty park to the state softball champion Toledo Old Dutch Beers, their second 2-0 defeat of the season. It was the same score by which the 1940 state champion Ferguson State Auditors won here a month ago.

* * *

The Toledo club had too much pitching for the All Stars, as Dembowski upped his rise ball over the bats of the swinging Mansfielders for 11 strikeouts in five innings.

That's all the longer it lasted, five innings. A military secret exploded in the faces of the big crowd, and the way the crowd scampered away from there was no secret.

Mansfield missed a great scoring chance in the last of the fifth when the Stars filled the bases with only one out. Duke Weber was safe on an error by the second baseman. It was a tough chance to start with, but the fielder booted the ball three times after knocking it down. Schaefer walked, and Woerth was safe on the first sacker's eror on a dribble down the base line.

But Freddie Lewis fanned on a ball at his shoe tops, and Ald Geiger also went down swinging, and then came the stuff that secrets of a military nature are made of.

The Stars had another chance in the third when Schaefer singled for their only hit, went to second when catcher threw wild trying to pick him off first, and continued to third when the first baseman heaved into center field. After Woerth fanned, Lewis strolled and stole second, but Geiger and Patterson fanned.

Toledo had only two real scoring chances and cashed in on both. A double by Murzinski and a single by Wielinski brought in the winning run in the first inning, and they added another in the fifth on a double by Ryan, an error by Schaefer and a wild pitch.

Thelma Linster Plans Defense

Mansfield Champion To Enter Publinx Play.

Thelma Linster, Mansfield's twice winner of the state public links women's championship, who went to Columbus last week to enter the Ohio Women's Amateur Golf tournament because she thought the public links matches were out "for the duration learned today that she will have to defend her title.

* * *

The public links matches will be held at Toledo on Aug. 16 with all play being held on the one day. Thelma said today she would defend her title along with Dick Rhyan of Columbus, who will be beating off challengers to the men's crown.

* * *

Ray Pennell of Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Publinx association, in announcing the rescheduling of the event, said it was done at the insistence of Toledo district officials, and that in co-operation with the war effort the competition would be limited to one day.

"The play will be over 36 holes, and although we are placing no actual restriction on the number of entries, it seems unlikely that we will be able to accommodate more than 135 players during the day," Pennell asserted.

* * *

The men's competition will be held over the Heatherdowns course while the women will perform at Ottawa park.

An added feature of the 13th annual classic will be the sending of a carton of cigarets to participants of the last two tournaments who are now in the armed forces.

The prize list, highlighted by the absence of trophies, will be dominated by war bonds and stamps.

It seems unlikely that the tournament will exceed last year's entry list of 109 in the men's division and 39 in the women's, especially in view of the fact that it was the slimness entry list, due to men in armed forces and war work, that prompted the original cancelling of the tourney earlier this year.

Brewers Threaten League Leaders

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Kaisas City and Columbus, who have been considering the fight for first place in the American Association then own particular quarrel, woke up this Monday morning to find they had company in the persons of the Milwaukee Brewers.

The Brewers continued on their quiet but efficient climb upward yesterday by thumping hapless St. Paul twice in something like record fashion, blasting out 38 hits good for 27 runs. Scores were 14-12 and 13-5, wth Vance Page, who hurled relief ball in both tilts, getting credit for both victories.

Since both first-place Kansas City and second-place Columbus split, the wins boosted the Brewers to within three games of the Blues and within a half-game of the Red Birds.

Kansas City outslugged Minneapolis in the first game to win 12-9, but Mickey Haefner stopped them in the second as the Millers counted a 6-2 win. Columbus meanwhile was playing tag with Indianapolis, the Indians winning the first tilt, 4-3, and the Red Birds taking the second, 5-3.

In a second division battle that for the present decided exactly nothing, the Louisville Colonels twice defeated the seventh-place Toledo Mudhens, 8-0, and 5-4. It was the Colonel's Karl who pitched the league's only shutout of the day, a four-hit effort.

Otherwise, it was a day for the spectators who like to see the ball hit far and often, and one of the worst days the hurlers ever experienced. The hit and run figures look like a junior edition of the national debt, with a grand total of 192 hits and 105 runs going into the record books as a result of the Sabbath's eight games.

DODGERS LOSE REISER DUE TO INJURY

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Pete Reiser, Brooklyn outfielder, has suffered a slight brain concussion and will be lost to the Dodgers for several days, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, St. Louis Cardinal club physician said today.

Hyland said Reiser would have to remain quiet in a hospital here until he recovered fully from the effect of the blow he suffered when he crashed into a fence at Sportsman's park yesterday. He was attempting to make a diving catch of Enos Slaughter's long hit which became an inside the park home run.

Texas Turns Out Golfers

Lone Star State Has Its Share of Stars.

(By Wide World)

FORT WORTH, Tex.—The supply of golf stars never runs low in big Texas.

This applies both to male and female.

Texas has produced such standouts as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl, Jimmie Demaret and a flock of others who cashed in on the big time.

Among its amateurs have been Gus Moreland, Reynolds Smith, David Goldman, Bill Welch, Harry Todd and many more who won national fame and brought this section a fine representation on the Walker Cup teams.

* * *

Among the women are Betty Jameson, twice national champion, Aniela Goldthwaite, Peggy Chandler and others who rank with the country's best.

National champions? Well, in addition to Miss Jameson there were Nelson, Guldahl and Hogan who took open titles; Welch, winner of the public links crown, and Earl Stewart, 1941 national intercollegiate king.

Now tab three youngsters for future greatness: 17-year-old Ray Kenny of Dallas, C Tyrrell Garth of Beaumont, also 17, and 16-year-old Polly Riley, the ex-tom-boy of Forth Worth.

Polly, the experts say, will become on of the finest Texas ever has produced.

Results have been outstanding thus far. In 1940 Polly won the first flight of the Southern tournament held here and in 1941 went to the semi-finals of the championship flight at Memphis. She also reached the quarter-finals of the State tournament in 1941.

This season the pretty miss swept through the women's West Texas tournament and the critics say she definitely is on the way to national prominence.

A. G. Mitchell, Forth Worth professional, who developed Mrs. Goldthwaite and other women golf stars, is quite enthusiastic about Polly's chances. So is Mrs. R. E. Winger of Forth Worth, who has played with and beaten practically all the top-flight women golfers of this section. Polly won the West Texas by defeating Mrs. Winger in the finals.

Stocky Miss Riley is the combination of many required qualities, the experts say. She has the physique, loves the game to the degree that she is willing to work at it tirelessly and has a strong competitive spirit and mental poise.

She possesses the power to hit the ball farther than most of the top women players. She has a sound swing and smooth co-ordination and improvement of her short game is what Mitchell is working on mostly now.

NO NOVELTY TO LUKE

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Luke Sewell, manager of the St. Louis Browns, caught three no-hitters in his playing days: Wes Ferrell's at Cleveland, in 1931; Vernon Kennedy's in 1935 and Bill Dietrich's in 1937, both at Chicago.

SUBS ASSIGNED VITAL ROLE IN ALEUTIAN FIGHT

Fog-Shrouded Seas Ideal For Under Water Operation; Reports Waited.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A major role for American submarines in the continuing battle for the fog-enshrouded Aleutians was indicated today as military and naval authorities grimly awaited further reports from the north Pacific theater of war.

Whether Japanese forces wheel against Russian Siberia in the next few weeks or attempt to extend their Aleutian invasion in an alternative drive for Dutch Harbor and the Alaskan mainland, United States subs may be expected to have more than their normal share of combat action, it was pointed out.

Significantly, foul weather which hampers air activity against the Japs now on Kiska, Attu and Agattu islands works to the advantage of submarine operations.

U. S. subs already have been responsible for three of the four Jap ships confirmed as sunk since the Nipponese struck at Dutch Harbor on June 3. Three of these were destroyers. And subs have been given credit for five of the total 13 Jap vessels sunk or damaged in naval-directed operations in the Aleutians to date.

In normal naval warfare, as reflected in the Coral sea and Midway battles, the dominant role goes to carrier and land-based planes, slower-moving u-boats, forced to remain submerged under clear daylight conditions, perform primarily as screening and observation units.

In the Aleutians, where poor visibility and low ceilings from fog and mist prevail, sub commanders find a "happy hunting ground," observers explained.

Evidence of this was seen in the official communique of July 8, reporting that an American sub had torpedoed and believed to have sunk a Jap destroyer in the vicinity of Kisa on July 5. The communique pointedly stated the attack was made "on the afternoon" of July 5th. The communique further cited "low visibility" in the area.

On July 4, the day before, American subs torpedoed four Jap destroyers, sinking three and leaving one "burning fiercely." Throughout this period, as borne out in the communique covering operations on July 3, bad weather blanketed the area.

That American submarines could strike with impunity, one in an "afternoon" attack, on combat ships designed for the job of subsinking was viewed as adding to the importance of the "undersea line" on the Aleutian front.

Dog Digs Hole 65 Feet Deep To Bury Bone

ANACONDA, Mont.—(INS)—Pup, three-month-old Shepherd dog, decided to bury a bone near the sidewalk of his home here. Now he's walking around with his chest stuck out like a pouter pigeon—all on account of the hole he dug.

City authorities measured the hole which was 65 feet deep and four feet in diameter. Furthermore it is lined with brick, laid without mortar. The consensus is that it was a well or cistern on a ranch located there before the city of Anacoda, site of the world's largest copper smelter, was founded. But they'd better not tell Pup that; he might get sore.

WINS CRUSADE ON BLUE LAWS

Theater Manager Campaigns Against Closing Movies On Sunday.

(By United Press)

JACKSON, Miss. — A one-man crusade against the state's 120-year-old blue laws prohibiting Bear-baiting, bull fighting and cockfighting has brought Sunday movies to this capital of 62,000.

Theater manager Henry Seel quietly began his campaign on April 12 when, ignoring the fact Sunday movies had never been operated here, he opened his theater for business. Within 20 minutes policemen arrived and ordered him to close. Seel refunded admissions and prepared to appear in city court the next day.

Given a maximum $50 fine, Seel appealed to the county court. The same scenes were re-enacted four more times. Each Sunday he opened, closed, refunded admissions, was fined $50 and appealed.

Meeting in mid-May, the county court freed Seel from charges of violating the hoary laws after a jury deliberated only eight minutes. Shortly thereafter Mayor Walter Scott and two commissioners announced there would be no more interference with Sunday movies.

The original blue law section affecting Sunday movies was enacted in June 1822, and was upheld by the state supreme court in 1920. The section reads:

"Sabbath: farces, plays, games—If any person shall engage in, show forth, exhibit, act, represent, perform, or cause to be shown forth, acted, represented, or performed, any interludes, farces, or plays of any kind, or any games, tricks, ball-playing of any kind, juggling, sleight of hand, or feats of dexterity, agility of body or any bear-baiting or any bull-fighting, horse racing, or cock-fighting, or any such like show or exhibit whatsoever, on Sunday, every person so offending shall be fined not more than 50 dollars."

GAS PRICE WAR FEARED IN EAST RATION SYSTEM

Independents Claim Removal of Gallonage Limitation Will Cause Hardship.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With two days remaining before the new permanent coupon system of rationing gasoline becomes effective along the east coast, OPA officials today grappled with the problem of independent dealers who fear a disastrous price war.

Removel of WPB's limitation order which guaranteed delivery of 50 per cent of "normal gallonage" to all filling stations, the independent merchants charged, will permit their larger competitors to lower prices and obtain a corner on coupons.

Under the new rationing program, which begins Wednesday, filling stations will receive deliveries of gasoline equivalent to the number of ration coupons turned in to them by the consuming public.

Joel Dean, OPA fuel rationing chief, met with representatives of the independent dealers in a series of conferences, but said that no definite solution had been agreed upon, although several alternatives were discussed.

Dean denied reports that a minimum price would be established to avoid a price war.

It was believed that the possibility of subsidies to the small merchants, to enable them to meet price-cutting competition, has been considered. RFC already has announced subsidies for the oil companies to cover the increased over-land cost of transporting petroleum to the east coast.

Rationing officials also were reported to have decided to order a cut in deliveries of gasoline to filling stations just outside the rationed zone. The reduction is expected to be approximately 25 per cent.

Dealers in the so-called "border zone," with their supplies cut, would thus refuse sales to motorists from rationed states in order to have enough gasoline to take care of their own regular customers.

HOROSCOPE

FOR TUESDAY, JULY 21

The accent on the affairs of this day may be in connection with domestic, social, cultural and love affairs, with things moving at high tempo and with much pleasure and satisfaction. This should be a most auspicious period for making plans and contacts for fulfillment of social ambitions. However, it might be well to treat those in high stations with affability and finesse, as they are not disposed to be over friendly.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual domestic, social and emotional activity and enjoyment, with more workaday activities relegated to the background. Push for social position and popularity, but use discretion with those in important positions. Deal with tact and diplomacy with these and with group, fraternal or the public, these being rather unfriendly.

A child born on this day should be devoted to the happiness and aspirations of the home, in its domestic, social, cultural and affectional integrity.

GOBLE ANSWERS DRAFT CHARGES

Says Washington Fails To Clarify Procedure on Taking Married Men.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Col. Chester W. Goble, state selection service director, said today that he had asked national headquarters "at least eight times" for a directive clearing up the order in which married men are to be drafted.

In answer to published demands that he should "cut red tape" and act according to the recent congressional mandate which in effect decreed that no married men be drafted until all single men are called, Colonel Goble stated that his first duty was to fill Ohio quotas.

"I have been acting and I shall continue to act according to directives received from Washington," the colonel stated.

"I have asked, at least eight times, for a directive clearing up the order in which married men are to be drafted. I have been criticized in Cleveland papers because married men have been drafted in Ohio since congress' action, while they have not been called in Illinois."

Goble said that state headquarters were kept open Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday so that, if the directive had come in, it could have been forwarded to the 330 local boards immediately.

"I can't do more than I have been doing," he stated. "However, if I don't receive an answer to my requests soon—I hope to today—the matter shall be taken up directly with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service administrator."

PRICE CHANGES NARROW TODAY ON STOCK MART

Some Issues Gain; Shortage of Scrap Metal Seen For Next Winter.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Price variations in today's stock market transactions generally were on the narrow side and numerous issues held at Saturday's final levels.

Improved were Standard Oil (NJ), Boeing, Public Service of N. J.; Goodrich, Monsanto Chemical and General Motors. Off a shade were Kennecott, General Electric, U. S. Steel and American Telephone.

Owners of metal shares scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which again warned of the practical certainty of insufficient scrap supply for the steel industry next winter.

"Some observers," the publication added, "believe the pinch will be felt as early as October. Current consumption to sustain near-peak steel output is using all available tonnage."

Students Solve Problem Of Farm Labor Shortage

BERKELEY, Cal. —(INS)— San Leandro and Hayward, Cal., high school students have solved the problem of a farm labor shortage.

Sixty high school students have gone into the fields to replace farm laborers who have migrated into the defense centers, and while they nurse blistered hands and stiff and aching backs, their work has been pronounced a success.

All thoughts of school days are gone from the minds of the youths who feel they are themselves aiding in the drive for added food production for the United Nations.

In this California county, the high school students entered the fields as an experiment to prove that youth can and will undertake the gigantic task of harvest.

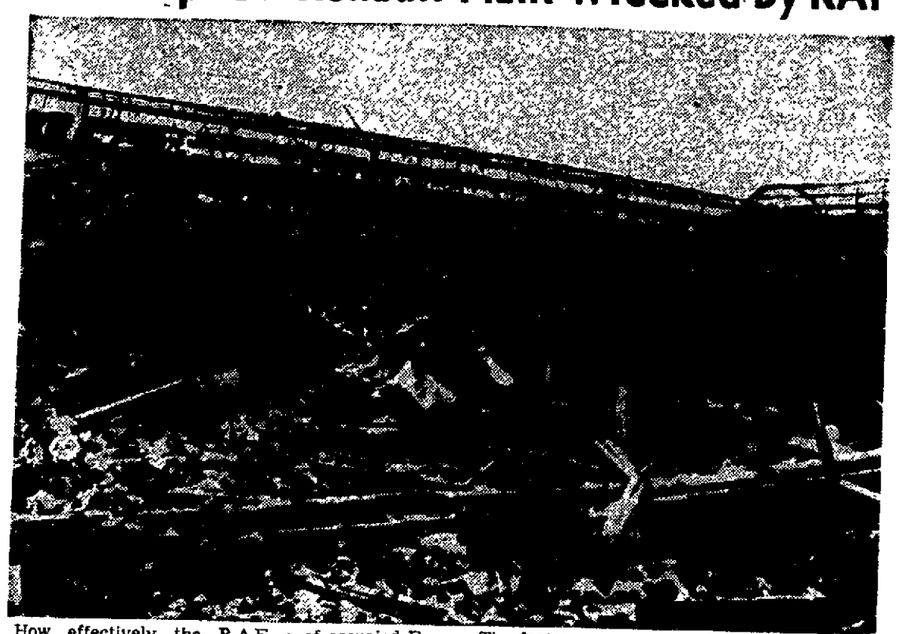
Close-Up Of Renault Plant Wrecked By RAF



How effectively the R.A.F. wrecked the Renault auto plant in Paris is shown by this photograph which was smuggled out of occupied France. The factory had been turning out vast stores of war material for the Nazis. Motors, crankshafts and valves were manufactured in the workshop above before the British bombers blasted it into a mass of twisted wreckage.

Smash at Japanese Airfield as Chinese Recapture Two Key Towns.

feng after firing the town but that the flames were extinguished by Chinese troops who marched in Saturday.

It added that Iyang, railway town 15 miles west of Hengfeng, was captured early yesterday by forces attacking from several directions.

After losing the two towns and with them their domination of the Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line the Japanese attempted a new thrust from Kwangfeng, in eastern Kiangsi, but were declared repulsed. Hengfeng fell to the Japanese on July 1 and was the last town on the railway to be captured in their drive to close the gap between their east and west columns.

In still another victory, the Chinese said their troops captured Yenshan, southern Honan, yesterday after a five-day battle.

Silver Dollar Has Lost Considerable Of Its Popularity

SAN FRANCISCO—The war is causing the west coast's popular silver dollar to lose its place.

Slowly, bartenders and storekeepers complain, the paper dollar bill is forcing the heavy "cartwheels" from circulation.

Two causes for this monetary phenomenon is given:

One is the heavy influx of east coast residents to Pacific coast war industries, bringing with them their aversion to the weighty silver dollars. When these easterners get change, they demand paper dollars.

Another reason is the soldier and sailor. For the sailor especially, with his abbreviated pockets, paper money is more convenient to carry.

Austerity Radios Will Make Their -Debut In Britain

LONDON—(INS)—Austerity food rations; austerity clothes; austerity sports; and now the latest austerity measure in wartime Britain is—radios.

Soon to be issued to the British public at "austerity" prices (from $40 to $100 each) are several hundred thousand cardboard and asbestos-made radio sets.

Cheapness of construction notwithstanding, the sets will be received with open arms. For nearly three years there has been an acute radio shortage in Britain.

The new sets are claimed by the government to be of "almost pre-war quality"; and to have good reception on all three wave-bands.

They are encased in plain cabinets, most of them considerably smaller than pre-war sets.

YOUTH, 14, HAS MANY TALENTS

Shows Unusual Ability In Musical Composition, Writing and Designing.

(By United Press)

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—At the age of 10, Vernon Christman was writing plays anud poetry in the meter and mood of Shakespeare.

Today, at 14, Vernon shows unusual ability in musical composition, piano playing, writing, mural studies.

As a student at Port Dickinson Union school, from which he graduated this month at the head of his class, young Christman made these contributions to the graduation exercises.

He designed and helped to execute the mural of Port Dickinson in the school auditorium.

He composed and arranged a piece "Sonatina" for five strings and a piano.

He played the piano for the piece.

He wrote, directed and acted in the Class day play, "School Daze."

Although Vernon had no interest in music until he was in the fifth grade, and has had no piano lessons he plays that instrument with remarkable skill.

In addition to the graduatin piece, young Christman has composed half a dozen arrangements for the piano.

And to prove his diversified talents, he is a good second-baseman. But, with all his other activities, he finds little time for the American pastime.

CANINE FANCIER PICKS WAR DOGS

BRISTOL, R. I. —(U.P.)— Dr. Howard W. Church of Bristol, widely-known dog fancier, now is picking champions for Uncle Sam.

Dog selectees must be between 9 and 15 months old, of the shepherd, airedale or doberman-pinscher breed. They will be trained at Montclair, N. J., for service as sentries or messengers with troops.
